INTRODUCTORY.

A most urgent need amongst the dental profession is a brief statement of the requirements exacted by the various States and foreign governments for permission to practise dentistry. This need is not limited to the nearly-three-thousand dental students that the colleges graduate on an average each year in the United States of America, but it is also felt by the colleges themselves, the dental examining boards, and general practitioners (among whom changes of location are occurring frequently). College faculties have repeatedly applied to us for such information, also members of examining boards, as well as the applicants for a license to practise dentistry in this, or some other, country.

We therefore attempt to supply this need in form of a Guide, publishing only the briefest statements requisite to give the required information, quoting excerpts from laws when that appears to be sufficient, and publishing the law in full in certain cases, where it has been recently enacted, or for some special reason. It would make an unwieldy volume were all the laws printed in full (the law of Great Britain alone covering thirty-two pages), so only the practical points are extracted and concisely stated.

We do not claim that the information contained herein is complete, or perfect, according to everyone's ideas on the subject, but we do claim that this is the first attempt to present legal dental requirements throughout the world in a systematic manner, and the information obtained is from official sources of the most reliable character, and of recent date.

ALPHONSO IRWIN, D.D.S.

425 Cooper street, Camden, N. J.

POSSIBLE EXAMINATION-EXEMPTIONS.

The question is sometimes asked, even by a graduate from a dental college: "Where can I practise without being obliged to undergo an examination before a Board of Dental Examiners?" In reply I would answer: "In any of the countries included in the following list, with the exceptions noted."

The list of so-called examination-exempt governments for reputable college graduates includes:

Alaska,	³ Ceylon,	Morocco,
¹ Arkansas,	China,	Palestine,
Arabia,	⁴ Germany ⁵ ,	Persia,
Barbadoes,	⁴ India,	Siam,
² Bermuda,	Liberia,	Straits Settlements,
² British E. Africa,	² Malta ³ ,	Syria,
British N. Borneo,	⁴ Mexico,	Zanzibar.

It must not be inferred from this list that a dentist can step right into one of these countries and practise, but that the authorities may (at their own discretion) waive the examination, and register the applicant. The countries not marked by a sign are open to dentists; the countries marked by a sign are open with reservations, as explained by the foot-notes.

¹The Board of Examiners may require an examination. Registration required.

²The Board of Examiners may require an examination. Diplomas from British Colleges are usually registered.

³Diplomas accepted from colleges recognized by the National Association of Dental Faculties of the United States.

⁴Trade tax.

⁵The use of the title Amerikanischer Zahnarzt, or American Dental Surgeon, is prohibited in Germany by several decrees of the Supreme Court.

The Prince Edward Island Dental Act
Prince Edward Island. of 1902, incorporates the Dental Society of Prince Edward Island, which controls under the law the practice of dentistry in this Province:

A register of legal practitioners must be kept, and no name can be recorded therein without a duly issued certificate, issued by the Provincial Secretary; I quote from Section 9 of the Act: "That such certificate shall be issued by the Provincial Secretary upon production to him of diploma of graduation in dental surgery from the Faculty of a Canadian university, having a special dental department, or from any such institution duly authorized by the laws of Great Britain or any of her dependencies, or from any dental college in the United States of America, recognized by the National Board of Dental Examiners of the said United States of America." The fee for this certificate is $5—and the council, consisting of five members of the society annually elected, can establish an annual fee; quite a severe penalty can be meted out to one practising without obtaining this certificate of registration.

No person can practise dentistry for fee or otherwise in any public street or common or in any park square or in any other public place, without liability to prosecution and penalty. "Any person holding the degree of B.A. from any University recognized by the By-Laws of the society, or any one holding a second year certificate from the Prince of Wales College, shall not be required to pass the matriculation examination. Any person in possession of a diploma from a college of dentistry, recognized by the council may be registered by the registrar without examination, provided that he possesses the scholastic qualifications required by the By-Laws of the society, otherwise the applicant must pass the matriculation examination, hereinbefore mentioned. This requisite is practically such qualification as would enable one to matriculate at any first-class college. A candidate for a license to practise dentistry must qualify as follows: He must be of the full age of 21 years; he must forward to the secretary-register-treasurer 14 days before examination, a written application accompanied by a satisfactory certificate of character, the license fee of $15 must be paid before the examination takes place; the matriculation certificate must also be produced or satisfactory evidence given of its having been granted; he must pass an examination before the Board of Examiners on the subjects usually included in a dental examination, and shall perform operations in the mouth and give practical evidence of skill in prosthetic dentistry.

The examinations shall be written, oral and clinical and comprise the following subjects: General and practical anatomy, physiology, chemistry, operative dentistry, dental therapeutics and other branches, usually required for a dental education. A candidate is required to make 65 per cent. in all papers to pass the matriculation examination. 60 per cent. passes in the case of a candidate for license to practise dentistry. Again I quote: "Any person holding a certificate of qualification from the Dominion Dental Council, recently organized, shall be entitled to be registered and have his name entered in the 'Prince Edward Island Dental Register' as a qualified practitioner."

Candidates who fail in any one or more subjects of the primary, will be obliged to pass subsequently upon the subjects in which they have failed and will not be eligible for final until they have passed all the primary. Sec. 12. Examinations will be held at the regular meeting of the board in April and supplementary examinations in October of each year in accordance with the act of incorporation. A supplementary examination shall only be held provided that the candidates can provide a sum sufficient to cover the necessary expenses, which sum will be decided by the board.

Sec. 13. The fee to be paid for the certificate of license shall be $60, and the candidates who fail to pass the final will be refunded $30.

Sec. 14. PART III.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

"Adis Ababa, Abyssinia, March 6, 1912.

Abyssinia.

"No dental laws exist in this country, and no license or diploma is required. A diploma from any special college, in America or elsewhere, would have little meaning here. There is but one dentist in Abyssinia at present, a Greek, who holds a position at the native court, and has a small practice in town. No opening exists here, as the foreign population at Adis Ababa is very small, the capital being situated nearly three hundred miles from the railway terminus. At Dire Dawa, however, the town is increasing in size owing to the advance of the railroad, but I should judge hardly sufficient for a permanent location at this time. I should not consider Abyssinia a profitable field, according to the standards of the American dentist, for some time to come."

"Algiers, Algeria, February 20, 1912.

Algeria.

"Relative to the possibilities and requirements of dentistry in this country, I am pleased to inform you as follows:

1. The possibilities, particularly in Algiers at the present time, are very good, as there is only one English-speaking dentist on the coast.
2. The requirements are the same as those in France, i. e., three years' study in a professional school; after graduation, an examination before the medical faculty. The same laws apply to Tunisia."

NOTE.—The new dental law, which went into force in France in November, 1911, has lengthened the course to five years; two years to be spent in probationary work in a dentist's office or a laboratory of a dental college, and three years of actual attendance at a recognized dental college.

"Aden, Arabia, December 11, 1911.

Arabia.

"No license is required to practise dentistry in Aden. English and American dentists who visit this port practise their profession in their hotels for a period of from one to two months. As natives do not generally care for dental work, there is no hope of a good business here."

"Buenos Ayres, Argentina, February 25, 1912.

Argentine Republic. "You cannot practise in this country without previously passing the full series of examinations required by the Faculty from Argentine students.

"Diplomas from foreign countries of doctors of medicine, pharmacists, dentists and midwives must be duly legalized by the Department of State at Washington, D. C., and, furthermore, be vised by the Argentine Minister or the Argentine Consul for the State where the diploma is issued. The legalization of signatures and seal should be on the diploma itself, or attached to the same by a ribbon, under seal.

"The diploma must be translated into the Spanish language by a public translator of the Argentine Republic.

"The diploma must be legalized by the Argentine Minister of Public Instruction, and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and presented to the Matriculation Board of the University Faculty, the applicant receiving from this board the necessary information as to all the preliminary steps for entering upon the course of studies.

"The curriculum for the revalidation of a diploma is the same as for students of the university.

"The fee for revalidation of a dental diploma is $148.61 (U. S. currency).

"The examinations must be progressive, i. e., the full course from the lower to the higher studies.

"In case of failure of the applicant to pass he can apply later for re-examination.

"The time for the examinations are the months of March, July and December."

Sydney, New South Wales.

Australia. "The dental laws of this colony require that a person from a foreign country, desiring to practise here, shall furnish proof of having been in practice for at least twelve months elsewhere than in New South Wales; and be the holder of a recognized certificate and prove that he is of good character, together with payment of necessary fees.

"The necessary diploma is defined in our By-Laws, No. 34, as being the license or diploma of a qualified board or other body, which permits its holder to practise dentistry in the country in which it has been obtained and which has been granted after (a) entrance examination equivalent to the matriculation of the University of Sydney, (b) four years' study, (c) examination in all the subjects of our curriculum.

"As far as I know, the only American diplomas that comply with these conditions are the special four years' course of the Northwest University of Chicago and the special four years' course of the Pennsylvania University, but of course there may be others."

The Dental Board of Victoria (Australia), in conjunction with the University of Victoria and the Australian College of Dentistry, now grants a dental diploma (L. D. S.), which is acknowledged by the General Medical Council as qualifying for registration so long as the council is satisfied that the standard of curriculum and examination are kept up to the requirements of dental education in Great Britain. It is understood that at present the council is assured that the regulations as to preliminary examination and instruction by lectures and hospital curriculum, followed by professional examinations, are practically the same as those of corresponding qualifying bodies in the United Kingdom.

"Prague, Bohemia, Austria, May 23, 1911.

Austria. "Those who have obtained the degree of doctor of medicine in Austria, in an Austrian university, may practise dentistry here. If foreigners desire to practise dentistry here, they are required to pass the examinations required by an Austrian university, that is to say, the examination in the official language of the university. I now refer to the regular dentist, one who is permitted to perform any operation connected with filling teeth, extracting teeth or making bridge work. Such dentists are known as Zahnarzt.

"The other class are permitted to make artificial teeth and to perform other mechanical work in connection with preparing teeth (sort of dentist's assistants), but are not permitted to practise dentistry in their own names. There are no American dentists practising in this city, for the above reasons."

"St. Michael's, Azores, March 16, 1912.

Azores. "Under a law of the Republic of Portugal, published in the 'Diário do Governo,' No. 122, of May 26, 1911, no foreigners, regardless of status or qualifications, are permitted to practise dentistry in Portugal or its possessions. The Diairo do Governo is an official publication, and we are unable to transmit a translation of the Act referred to."

Barbadoes, West Indies, Nov. 3, 1911.

Barbadoes. "There is no law governing the practice of dentistry in this island; anyone can practise. There is no license granted, nor are any examinations held. In my opinion, the market is over-stocked with dentists."

Brussels, Belgium, February 12, 1912.

Belgium. "It would be useless for an American to come to Belgium to try to practise dentistry, unless he wished to undergo a medical examination, as a law has been drafted to this effect, but not yet passed, and since a few years no other examinations have been made."

Hamilton, Bermuda, October 30, 1911.

Bermuda. "There are many dentists here and I do not think that additional practitioners would be able to make a living. A copy of the Dental Registration Act, for Bermuda, is submitted herewith."

The Dental Registration Act for Bermuda is dated April 4, 1911, and provides as follows:

1. (1) Registration for dentists already practising five years immediately preceding April 4, 1911.

(2) The registration of certificates granted by the Dental Board.

2. The publication of the names of registered dentists in the Gazette.

3. The Colonial Secretary is authorized to strike off the register the names of dentists, deceased, those ceased to be qualified, names struck off the roll, register, or record, "as set forth in Section 10 of this Act."

4. Provision is made for registration and payment of two shillings into the public treasury, through the Colonial Secretary.

5. Provides penalties for fraudulent registration.

6. Creates a Dental Board, consisting of two medical and three dental practitioners.

7. Defines the duties of the Dental Board to consist of examining documents of applicants for registration and conducting theoretical and practical examinations when credentials are not satisfactory.

8. Describes conditions under which the Dental Board shall register:

- (a) Five years practitioner's clause. (See Sec. 1.)
- (b) Certificate from Dental Board.
- (c) Examination by the Dental Board.
- (d) Approved dental diploma, duly authenticated by proper officials.
- (e) Dental board authorized to make rules, define standards, judge qualifications and decide questions approved by the Governor in Council.

9. The decision of the Governor in Council on submitted points shall be final.

10. The Colonial Secretary, for sufficient cause, after giving dentist a hearing, is authorized to cancel such registration.

11. All questions, in case of dispute, shall be decided by the Governor in Council.

12. Provides that all persons registered under this Act shall be entitled to demand and recover reasonable charges for dental aid.

13. No person shall be entitled to recover any charge in any court of law, unless he prove upon the trial that he is registered under this Act.

14. If any dental practitioner, registered under this Act, is convicted of any indictable offense, after due inquiry, hearing, stating particulars of case in full, the Governor-General may thereafter direct board to strike name off register, provided the name may be afterwards restored at request of board.

15. Provides penalty of imprisonment for two years, or fine of one hundred pounds, or both, for fraudulent registration.

16. Stipulates that anyone convicted before any two justices of the peace of practising dentistry without registration shall be fined not exceeding twenty pounds.

17. Exemption of registered physicians from extracting and treating teeth for relief of pain, and bona fide students of dentistry from operating "under the immediate supervision and in the presence of their preceptor."

"Legacion de Bolivia, Washington, D. C.

Bolivia.

"In Bolivia, any person holding a proper diploma can practise the dental profession, passing a previous examination before a Board of Medical Examiners, and obtaining a license to exercise his profession. There are no special dental laws that I know of. American diplomas must be legalized at the State Department in Washington, and afterwards the signature of the Secretary of State must be legalized by the Bolivian Consul in New York."

"Para, Brazil, February 29, 1912.

"In regard to the legal requirements to be complied with by dentists desiring to locate in Brazil, I have been informed that foreign doctors had only to show their diplomas and, if they were from recognized institutions, that they could practise where they pleased. This, of course, would in a measure be subject to local or State laws.

"It is my belief that this city does not offer any great inducements for a foreign dentist, and the present local demand is supplied by natives, most of whom received their education in America."

"Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, February 29, 1912.

"In order to obtain a license to practise dentistry in Brazil, the graduate from a reputable dental college in the United States of America would be compelled to undergo a technical examination of the most comprehensive sort and in the Portuguese language."

"British East Africa, November 27, 1911.

British East Africa. "In British East Africa, dentists are required to be registered, but 'any person who can satisfy the Registrar that he is entitled to be registered in the United Kingdom as a colonial or foreign dentist' is entitled to registration."

"Georgetown, British Guiana, March 6, 1912.

British Guiana. "An American diploma from a reputable and well-known college is accepted, provided that proofs are submitted that the holder of the diploma is the one to whom it was issued. At present there are no openings for American dentists in this colony. There are two American dentists here and another (a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania) is about to open up."

The Dental Law of British Guiana is dated July 22, 1908, and provides:

5. From and after the commencement of this ordinance, no person shall be entitled to recover any fee or charge in any court for the performance of any dental operation or for any dental attendance or advice, unless he is registered under this ordinance, or is a registered medical practitioner.

6. Any person who

(1) Is registered or entitled by law to be registered as a dentist in the United Kingdom under any Act for the time being in force; or,

(2) Holds a certificate granted in a British possession or foreign country, for the time being recognized by the Medical Board as furnishing a sufficient guarantee of the possession of the requisite knowledge and skill for the efficient practise of dentistry; or,

(3) Is at the commencement of this ordinance bona fide engaged in this colony in the practice of dentistry, either separately or in conjunction with the practice of medicine, surgery or pharmacy, shall, on payment of a fee of twenty-four dollars, be entitled to be registered under this ordinance.

7. The Secretary of the Medical Board shall keep a register * * * to be styled the Dentists' Register, of all persons registered as dentists under this ordinance.

"Sandakan, British North Borneo.

"In reference to the practice of dentistry in this State (Borneo), I beg to inform you that there are no laws restricting the practice, and that no license is required."

Bulgaria. "The Bulgarian Government has stated in a communication that according to Article 120 of the Law on Public Health in Bulgaria, any person who has successfully completed the course of a dental school and who desires to acquire the right to practise the profession of dentistry in the kingdom, must pass an examination called the 'Colloquium,' and that only Bulgarian subjects are admitted to the said 'Colloquium.'"

"Teneriffe, Canary Is., April 2, 1912.

Canary Islands. "The requirements are a diploma from a reputable dental college, and besides the passing of a Board of Examiners in Madrid, the payment of a fee, about similar to the requirements of U. S. A. boards."

"Cape Town, Cape Colony.

Cape Colony. "The practice of dentistry here is under the direct control of the Colonial Medical Council, in the same manner as the practice of medicine. It is learned from a member of the Colonial Medical Council with reference to paragraph 8 of the Regulations that a curriculum of four years will be accepted only when each comprises nine months.

"It is also learned with reference to reciprocal acceptance of diplomas (see par. 10 of Regulations) that at present there is no State of the United States of America which is thought to accept British diplomas.

"From the Laws and Regulations, it will be seen that unless a dentist has British qualifications, or has been registered in the United Kingdom, it is impossible for him to secure a license to practise in Cape Colony."

Instructions to Dental Applicants for Registration in Cape Colony.

The procedure in the case of dental practitioners, desirous of obtaining a license under Section 18 of the Medical and Pharmacy Act, 1891, to practise in Cape Colony, may be briefly summarized as follows:

1.—A written application for registration and license to practise should be addressed to the secretary, Colonial Medical Council, Colonial Secretary's Office, Cape Town.

2.—With this letter should be forwarded the original diplomas or certificates held by the applicant, a sworn declaration of identity in terms of No. 9 of the regulation following, and a post office order for the sum of two pounds, ten shillings ($12.16) which is the license duty, payable for admission to practise as a dental practitioner. The letter should also state for registration purposes the place, if known, at which the applicant proposes to practise.

3.—The application with inclosures, if in order, is laid before the Colonial Medical Council or the Executive Committee thereof, at the first meeting after receipt for consideration. If approved, a letter is addressed by the Council to the Colonial Secretary in terms of Section 18 of the Medical and Pharmacy Act, 1891, (qv.), recommending that the applicant be registered and a license issued to him.

4.—The Colonial Secretary then issues a license, and forwards it to the applicant, together with the diplomas or certificates submitted. The name of the applicant is at the same time registered in the register kept in the Colonial Secretary's office in terms of Section 36 of the Act, and a notice of license is published in the Government Gazette. Until the license in question has been signed by the Colonial Secretary, the applicant is not entitled to practise.

Regulations: The Regulations for Dentists, framed by the Colonial Medical Council, under Section 20 of the Medical and Pharmacy Act, 1891, are as follows:

1.—All dental qualifications, certificates, diplomas, degrees or titles recognized by the General Medical Council of the United Kingdom shall entitle the holders thereof to claim registration as dentists under Section 18 of the Medical Pharmacy Act, 1891.

2.—In reference to the foregoing, any person claiming to be licensed and registered as a dentist under the Medical and Pharmacy Act, 1891, on the grounds that he was in practice before July 22, 1878, will be required to produce the certificate of the General Medical Council aforesaid to that effect, and if his name be not upon the last published Dentists' Register, he will be required to account for it satisfactorily to the Council.

3.—The holder of any diploma of Licentiate Dental Surgery, granted by any of the Medical authorities of the United Kingdom, empowered so to do by the Dentists' Act, 1878, shall not necessarily also produce the certificate of the General Medical Council, (which) reserves the right of applying to the secretary of the body, granting such diploma, for information as to whether the name of the possessor is still upon the register or record of the body of which such person holds the license.

4.—An applicant may be called upon to appear before the Colonial Medical Council to prove his identity or to give evidence as to his good character.

5.—The secretary shall from time to time, write and forward (duly registered) a letter to any registered person, addressed to him according to his address upon the register to inquire if he has ceased to practise or has changed his address, and if no answer be received within six months, his name shall be erased from the register.

6.—Any qualification, registerable in accordance with Rule 1 acquired subsequently to first registration, shall be registered upon payment of a fee of five shillings.

7.—All matters, referring to dentistry that may come before the Colonial Medical Council, shall, where practicable, be referred to the dental number of the Council for his advice.

8.—All dental diplomas registerable in the Colony, shall be required to cover a minimum curriculum of four years, i. e., (a) two consecutive years' attendance at recognized medical and dental hospitals and schools, with (b) proof of having been engaged during a period of not less than three years in acquiring a practical familiarity with the details of mechanical dentistry under the instruction of a competent practitioner, provided that one year of such instruction may be taken concurrently with the attendance on hospital practice and lectures. Provided also that in the case of qualified medical practitioners, two instead of three years shall be sufficient.

In all cases a satisfactory preliminary examination in general education must have been required.

9.—All applicants shall submit together with their diplomas or certificates, declarations sworn before a justice of the peace, (a) of personal identity, (b) of the authenticity of the said diplomas or certificates, (c) of the fact that they are entitled to practise as qualified dentists in the countries where the said diplomas or certificates were granted, and that they have never been debarred from practice in any country by reason of misdemeanor or professional misconduct.

10.—No diploma granted by the Government or any university or other body of a foreign country shall entitle the holder thereof to registration as a (medical practitioner or) dentist in this colony unless equal rights and advantages are given in such country to the holder of any British registerable degree.

11.—Regulation No. 10 of the 24th of February, 1902, shall not apply to any person born in the Colony or domiciled therein prior to the said date, who shall at the said date have completed or have been actually pursuing in a foreign country the recognized dental course for obtaining a dental diploma, in such country.

“Colombo, Ceylon, December 14, 1911.

Ceylon.

“An American possessing the diploma of a reputable American dental college will be permitted to practise dentistry in Ceylon provided the Ceylon Medical Council is satisfied with his qualifications, and registers him as a qualified practitioner.

There is no special legislation on this subject in Ceylon. As it is, the island is well off in the matter of dental surgeons. In view of the fact that the Cingalese, as a rule, have very good teeth and rarely need artificial aid in preserving them, there is little scope for the practice of dentistry out here.

“Those that need the services of dentists are the European residents, and the wants of these, in this direction, are supplied by nearly a dozen well-qualified dental surgeons. It may be interesting to you to know that three out of this number hold American diplomas.”

“Valparaiso, Chile, March 6, 1912.

Chile.

“Foreign physicians and surgeons presenting degrees from universities recognized in Chile are considered equal to licentiates of the Faculty of Medicine and Pharmacy, and are subjected only to a practical examination in order to obtain the title of surgeon, which is equivalent to that of M. D. in the United States. This examination covers operative medicine, in-and-out clinic, gynecology, ophthalmology, obstetrics, anatomy, pathology and general theory.

Foreign physicians and surgeons from universities not recognized by Chile must take the examinations prescribed for would-be licentiates of the Faculty of Medicine and Pharmacy. Dentists and pharmacists with foreign diplomas who wish to practise their profession in Chile will submit to the regulations, examinations, etc., prescribed by the Council of Public Instruction. It must be remembered that all examinations for physicians, dentists and pharmacists are in Spanish."

"Chefoo, China, March 23, 1912.

China.

"There are no licenses issued to American dentists practising in China. It is immaterial whether or not the dentist is qualified. American dentists are most popular; for many years they were the only dentists in China, but of late the Japanese are competing. There is a good field in Chefoo for a dentist who wants to build a practice, as there are no dentists here now."

"Bogota, Colombia.

Colombia.

"Part of the decree No. 592 of the Colombian Dental Law, dated June 8, 1905, provides: 'That a person, desiring to practise dentistry in Colombia, must present a diploma, granted to him by the Bogota Dental College, or by some foreign college or faculty of known competence. It is permissible in villages where no dentist is resident, for an individual to practise dentistry who can prove that he has practised for at least two years in some dental office. Further, and in everything relating to this last profession, the provisions of the present decree shall apply.'"

"Boma, Congo Free State.

Congo Free State.

"Dentistry is practised very little in the Congo. It is part of the general work of the physicians in the employ of the State, and of some of the medical missionaries. There are no special laws on the subject so far as I am informed, but for medical practice in the Congo, authorization is obtained from the Governor-General upon the presentation of diplomas or after examination, and a license fee of $100 per year is charged."

"San Jose, Costa Rica, February 16, 1912.

Costa Rica.

"All persons having a diploma from a reputable dental college are permitted to practise dentistry, after passing an examination, which is in Spanish.

"The field is pretty well filled with American dentists at present, and I cannot report that any openings exist in this consular district."

"Habana, Cuba, February 2, 1912.

Cuba.

"I do not know of any published laws regarding the dental profession; all diplomas must be properly authenticated by State and Federal authorities, and by the Cuban Minister at Washington before they are admitted before the Examining Board at the University of Habana. Notwithstanding this procedure, the applicant must still take the regular examination to admit him to practice. The examination is by the Medical Board and is conducted in Spanish (interpreter is allowed). This examination is said to be severe, and the fees for the same amount to about fifty dollars.

"There are few, if any, openings for American dentists in Cuba at the present time; the field is fully occupied by both American and Cuban practitioners, the latter usually having been educated in colleges in the United States."

"Copenhagen, Denmark, February 19, 1912.

Denmark.

"An American possessing a diploma from an American dental college, from which he has graduated, will not, as a rule, be permitted to practise in Denmark. License to practise dentistry in Denmark is only granted to those who have passed an examination in Denmark.

"Permission to practise dentistry in Denmark is given by the Minister of Justice, and in accordance with an instruction of June 28th, 1906, it is allowed the Danish dentists to employ foreign clinical assistants; these assistants must be dental graduates and are only permitted to work under the supervision of the authorized dentist, and cannot take over the practice during the absence of their employer."

"Santo Domingo, D. R., February 13, 1912.

"The practice of dentistry in the Dominican Republic is regulated by the law of the Medical Board (Ley de Juro Medico) of June 12, 1906. This law provides that a person desiring to practise dentistry, medicine or pharmacy must first undergo an examination, partly theoretical and partly practical, given by the Professional Institute (Instituto Profesional) in this city. After successfully passing this examination, application must be made to the Superior Medical Council (Consejo Superior Medico) for permission to practise. This application must be accompanied by:

"(1) A diploma of an accredited Dominican or foreign institution properly legalized (in the case of a foreign institution, the document must be legalized by the Dominican Consul having jurisdiction in that district);

"(2) Proof of the identity of the applicant;

"(3) The diploma must be accompanied by a certificate of the good moral character, also properly legalized; and

"(4) The certificate of the applicant's having successfully passed the examination of the Superior Council must also accompany the application.

"A diploma from a United States dental college does not entitle the holder thereof to any special privileges, and all applicants are required to take the above-described examinations.

"The best openings for American dentists in the Dominican Republic would probably be in the cities of Santo Domingo, Macoris and Puerto Plata, which cities contain the largest foreign (and especially American and English populations) of any cities in the Republic. The majority of the native Dominicans, especially of the lower classes, have had very little education in the proper attention and care of their teeth, and the dental practice among these people would therefore be comparatively restricted."

"Guayaquil, Ecuador, March 11, 1912.

Ecuador.

"Dentists who have received their diplomas in the United States and intend coming to this country to engage in their profession, should have their diplomas vised by the Consul or Consul-General of Ecuador in the United States before leaving there for this country, otherwise the diploma would not receive proper consideration here.

"After arriving here with the diploma vised as stated, an examination, general and professional, is required, and which as a rule will be taken or conducted in the Spanish language. The expense of the examination is said to be about forty dollars. The examinations will be held either at Guayaquil or Quito.

"There is reciprocity between Chile, Bolivia and Ecuador, with respect to the practice of dentistry, that is, a dentist having the right to practise in one of these countries may also practise in either of the other two without having to take an examination, but simply have his papers properly registered, after which permission will be given to practise."

"Cairo, Egypt, February 15, 1912.

Egypt.

"An American desiring to practise dentistry in Egypt must present to the Department of Public Health in addition to the diploma of a regularly incorporated and properly recognized dental college in the United States a certificate showing that he has been admitted, after examination, to practise in one of the States of the United States.

"There are a large number of dentists established in Cairo, including Americans, and, as the town is practically deserted during more than half the year by the wealthier classes of both foreigners and natives owing to the heat, I strongly advise American dentists not to go to the trouble and expense of attempting to establish a practice here.

"Living in Cairo is very high, the season short and the field over-crowded."

"London, England, February 23, 1912.

England.

"Any man can practise in England legally. The L.D.S. (Licentiate in Dental Surgery) only being registered, may call himself a dentist. The unlicensed dentist (the dentist without the L.D.S.) cannot recover fees by process of law; otherwise, the country is open. In obtaining registration, it is necessary, examination equal to Cambridge Matriculation Examinations; after which, the whole dental curriculum must be taken at a dental hospital in Great Britain extending over a period of two years, and then passing the final professional examination. There are, however, changes pending in the dental law and license requirements, and I will let you know the particulars immediately the matter is settled."

"Tamsui, Formosa.

Formosa.

"The regulations for dental practice in Formosa are the same as for medical practice. We submit a translation of the regulations issued June 10, 1885:

"1. In order to practise medicine in Formosa, it is necessary to hold the license to practise medicine from the Minister of Home Affairs (of the Japanese government), or a permit from the Governor-General of Formosa.

"2. When one who possesses the medical license issued by the Minister of Home Affairs wishes to practise medicine, he is required to fix upon the place and apply with the license, at the district office within five days after commencing medical practice.

"3. The applicant for a permit shall present his application, together with a history of his studies in medicine, to the Government of Formosa, through the district office.

"4. The permit to practise medicine holds good only in Formosa and the Pescadores, but the boundary may be further restricted at the discretion of the Governor-General.

"5. The receiver of the permit shall pay a fee of five yen ($2.49) on the delivery of the permission certificate.

"6. For copies of the permission certificate, a fee of one yen shall be paid.

"7. If the holder of the license issued by the Minister of Home Affairs wishes to cease practising medicine, he is required to notify the district office to that effect.

8. The Governor-General may at any time suspend the license, or prohibit the practice, of a physician found guilty of crime or unlawful acts in the exercise of his profession.

"9. The district office is requested to transmit at once to the Governor-General of Formosa the permission certificate of which a physician has been deprived through prohibition in accordance with Section 8. In case of suspension of medical practice, the date of suspension shall be noted on the back of the permit which shall be returned to the offender.

"10. A physician whose medical practice has been prohibited or suspended by the Minister of Home Affairs shall be incapacitated from future practice, or during the time of suspension only, as the case may be.

11. Any person who carries on medical practice without a permit, or who practises medicine outside the limited boundary, is liable to a fine of not more than twenty-five yen, or to imprisonment for not more than twenty-five days.

"12. For violation of Article 2, a physician shall be liable to a fine of not more than one yen and ninety-five sen.

"13. Prefects and chief officials of islands within the jurisdiction of the Formosan government, may be authorized to make regulations for control of physicians.

"14. These regulations shall be enforced on and after the first day of the seventh month of the twenty-ninth year of Meiji."

"Paris, France, February 16, 1912.

France.

"The most salient feature of the latest French dental enactments is the raising of the standard of requirements. The American dentist who desires to locate in France will find the requirements of the new law which went into effect November, 1911, much more difficult than formerly.

"The new law provides as follows: The course of study leading to the degree of dental surgeon in France now requires five years divided into periods, the 'stage' (two years of probationary work in a dentist's office or a laboratory of a dental college), and three years' actual attendance at a recognized dental college. The applicant must produce for his initial enrollment evidence of having completed at least a common school course. The conditions of admitting women are somewhat more strict.

"At the end of the second year of the stage, the student must submit to an examination of validation, which comprises first, the execution of a design reproducing the scheme of the exterior form and structure of one or several teeth; second, a practical test in modeling (reproducing in wax, plaster, wood, or ivory several teeth) of the mouth; third, making an artificial denture (the execution of a device including metallic parts stamped and soldered); fourth, questions on physics, chemistry, mechanics and metallurgy, as applied to the dental art. An oral test of half an hour is also given.

"The second period of the course is known as the scolarité, requires three years, and includes in brief the following branches: First year.—Elements of anatomy, physiology and bacteriology, asepsis and antisepsis, complete anatomy of the teeth, their development and articulation with the maxillaries; also operative and mechanical dentistry. Second year.—Elements of medical dentistry, auscultation of the heart, odontology and hygiene of the mouth. The work of the second year is completed with practical exercises in dental clinics and laboratory work. Third year.—Dental clinics, dental operations and mechanical dentistry, as well as practical work in different phases of the dental art.

"Examinations: A candidate for the degree of dental surgeon must successfully pass three examinations, one at the end of each school year, covering the work done during that period. The French diploma of dental surgeon is issued by the Faculty of Medicine of Paris, Lyons, Bordeaux and Nancy. Proper credit on the examinations is given for work done in hospitals under the supervision of the faculty. Graduate dentists from foreign countries desiring to practise in France are required to pass the examinations prescribed in the decree. They may obtain a total release from the stage, and a partial release from the scolarité course upon the recommendation of the consulting board of public instruction, which bases its decisions largely upon the candidate's credentials and scholastic attainments. Dental surgeons are obliged to register at the prefecture, and at the record office of the civil tribunal of their arrondissement within a month after their establishment in business. Foreign dental students and those desiring to practise in France, are subjected to the same requirements as native students and practitioners; furthermore, unless they are competent in the language of this country, they are placed at a great disadvantage in taking the entrance examinations and pursuing the courses prescribed, as all examinations are given, and all questions must be answered in French. Hence, knowledge of French seems absolutely essential to obtain a dental diploma. State diplomas authorizing the holder to practise anywhere in France or its colonies are conferred upon the successful completion of studies in any of the dental colleges of France. American dentists coming to Paris to practise should not fail to have their dental diploma vised by the nearest French Consul and provide themselves with all credentials possible; it will aid them. In securing releases, the applicant for a partial release must produce evidence of having completed three years' work in a dental college; in no case will a diploma be granted unless the last year's work has been done in the school issuing the diploma. There are at present in Paris a number of graduates of American dental colleges employed in dental offices on a commission or salary, and at the same time pursuing courses in local schools, thus preparing themselves for the examinations and for ultimate admission to practice under their own names.

"Penalties: Infractions of the dental laws are subject to criminal prosecution. The illegal practise of dentistry is punishable by a fine of 1000 to 2000 francs (a franc is about 19.3 cents U. S. currency), and 3000 francs for the second offense, together with an imprisonment of six months to one year. Failure to register one's diploma is punishable by a fine of 25 to 100 francs. The court may also deprive an offender temporarily or permanently of the right to practise his profession. This applies to foreigners as well."

"Berlin, Germany, February 19, 1912.

Germany. "The following information on the subject of the requirements of an American dentist to practise his profession in Germany was obtained from the Chief Medical Officer of the City of Berlin:

"1. American dentists, being non-qualified practitioners in this country, according to the police regulations of August 21, 1903, must report their arrivals, departures, as well as each removal, to the proper Royal District Physician of the place in which they reside;

"2. They are obliged to prove that they are American dentists by presenting sufficient evidence in the form of graduation diplomas, etc.;

"3. An examination for practising dental surgery in Germany is not required, because, according to the Imperial Trade Regulations, the practice of medical or dental science in this country is allowed;

"4. The use in Prussia of the title of doctor, obtained at non-German universities after April 7, 1897, is permitted only with the consent of the Minister of Education.

5. Furthermore, the use of the title 'Amerikanischer Zahnarzt' or 'American Dental Surgeon,' is prohibited according to several decrees of the Supreme Court of Germany."

The rules governing the practice of dentistry in Germany are as follows:

"American dentists desiring to practise their profession in Germany are subjected to the regulations of the Reichsgewerbeordnung, a law to regulate trade of all kinds within the Empire. According to this law, Germans and foreigners are at liberty to practise the science of medicine and surgery and other arts (Heilkunde), but such persons as may call themselves 'Arzt,' that is to say 'Zahnarzt' or 'Wundarzt' (physicians and dental or other surgeons), require an 'approbation' before being permitted to follow their calling. Section 29 of the Reichsgewerbeordnung provides as follows in regard to the approbation:

"'An approbation granted on the basis of a proof of qualification is required * * * by such persons as wish to call themselves * * * Zahnarzt (dental surgeon), or who attribute to themselves a similar title, or who shall be recognized as such by a State or community, or who shall be entrusted as such with official duties.'

"The character of the proof of qualification thus required has been described by the Bundesrat (federal council) in its notice of July 5, 1889, relating to the examination of dental surgeons and published on page 417 and following pages, in the volume for 1889 of the official German gazette, entitled Zentralblatt für das Deutsche Reich. According to this notice, it is particularly required that the applicants be subjected to an examination.

"American dentists intending to style themselves as above must pass an examination in Germany in accordance with the foregoing requirements, and thereupon, if the result be favorable, are entitled to call themselves Zahnarzt. The diplomas of American universities or dental schools do not suffice. Inquiry at the office of the Hamburg Board of Health discloses the fact that the examination just referred to is not exceedingly difficult. However, American dentists at this examination, must not merely demonstrate a knowledge of their profession, but must also show that they have passed the graduating examination of a public high school which would enable the applicant to matriculate in a university. A graduating examination of this kind would necessarily involve a knowledge of numerous elementary subjects, mathematics, chemistry, history, geography and ancient and modern languages. Foreigners are much more likely to have difficulty in satisfying these requirements than in proving their professional aptitude.

"However, and this is, perhaps, the most important point to be borne in mind in connection with this report, capable persons may be permitted to practise dentistry in Germany without the official 'approbation' here described, if only they renounce the right to designate themselves as Zahnarzt. Thus, there is no objection whatever to the use of the professional title of 'Zahnheilkundigen,' literally, a person familiar with the art of correcting and healing the teeth. Care must be exercised in choosing a professional title, as all designations are prohibited and punishable which tend to make the public believe that the person in question has received an official 'approbation' unless such approbation actually has been granted. The opinions of the courts themselves are not in accord as to the admissibility of the several possible substitute titles. Thus of late a few courts have objected to the title 'In Amerika approbierte Zahnarzt' (surgeon of dentistry approved in America), and also to the word 'dentist.' On the other hand, American dentists who have been domiciled in Germany since and before 1904, occasionally have received permission to call themselves 'American Dentist,' or 'Doctor of Dental Surgery,' because of the fact that they had used these titles prior to the enactment of the latest laws. Denominations such as Zahnkünstler (artist in dentistry), Zahnbehandler (person treating the teeth), etc., are indisputably admissible.

"Any American proposing to practise in a particular place would do well first to place himself in communication with the competent local authorities before undertaking to do so, for the reason that the opinions of the authorities are at variance in different places.

"Dentists who have not received an official approbation are required to register at the office of the competent local authority at the time of their coming to Germany, and to report that it is their intention to begin the practice of their profession. In Hamburg, they must also obtain a Gewerbeschein (trade license) which costs eighteen marks ($4.28), but this is not necessary in Prussia.

"Academic degrees, acquired from American educational institutions (for instance, the title of doctor) cannot be used in Germany without approval on the part of the State government. The board of Health in Hamburg declares that this approval is refused almost invariably in this city (Hamburg)."

Excerpts from Dentists' Act, 1878.

Great Britain.

Section 3 states: Registration required. To take or use the "name or title of dentist or of dental practitioner without registration renders the offender liable" to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds ($100 U. S. currency).

Section 4 states that non-registered dentists or medical men are not entitled "to recover any fee or charge in court."

Section 5 defines the privileges of registered persons as being "to practise dentistry and to recover fees in court."

Section 6. Qualifications necessary for registration are (a) "a licentiate in dental surgery of any of the medical authorities; (b) entitled to be registered as a foreign or colonial dentist; (c) engaged in practice of dentistry at time of passing this Act (1878)."

Section 6 also provides that a person resident in the United Kingdom shall not be disqualified for registration under this Act by reason that he is not a British subject, and a British subject shall not be disqualified by reason of his being engaged in practice beyond the limits of the United Kingdom.

Section 8 provides for the registration of the colonial dentist with a recognized certificate.

Section 9 provides for the registration of foreign dentists with recognized certificate * * * without examination, in the United Kingdom.

Section 10. Recognized certificates of colonial and foreign dentists are "such certificate, diploma, membership, degree, license, letters, testimonials or other title, status or document" as may be recognized for the time being by the General Council. Appeals by dentists upon refusal of license must be made to the Privy Council, and "such order shall be obeyed," either for dismissal of appeal or recognition of certificate, by General Council.

Section 11. Provides for (1) the keeping of the Dentists' Register by the Registrar; (2) the General Council shall direct form and details of Register; (3) publication of Register shall be yearly or oftener; (4) Dentists' Register shall be admissible as evidence; (5) the General Council directs Registrar; (6) provides for revocation of license by the General Council.

Section 12 is devoted to the duties of the Registrar.

Section 14 treats of the restoration of name to Dentists' Register by direction of the General Council.

Section 15 provides for the appointment of a special committee by the General Council to attend to the erasure or restoration of name to Dentists' Register.

Section 16 provides that the registration fee after 1879 shall not exceed five pounds (about $25).

Section 17 provides that the "General Council may from time to time make, alter and revoke such orders and regulations as they see fit for regulating the general and the local registers and the practice of registration under this Act, and the fees to be paid in respect thereof."

Section 18 provides for examinations in dental surgery by the medical authorities "hereinafter referred to as colleges or bodies."

Section 19. Subject: Board of Examiners, appointment of by the Council or other governing body of the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh, and of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow, and of the Royal College of Surgeons of Ireland, and of any university in the United Kingdom. Each of such boards shall be the Board of Examiners in Dental Surgery or Dentistry, and shall consist of not less than six members.

Section 20 treats of fees for examination, which are determined by the "governing bodies" of the universities previously mentioned.

Section 21 provides: "The Royal College of Surgeons of England shall continue to hold examinations and to appoint a Board of Examiners in Dentistry or Dental Surgery for the purpose of testing the fitness of persons to practise dentistry or dental surgery * * * and to grant certificates of such fitness * * * ; and any person who obtains such certificate shall be a licentiate in dental surgery of the said college, and his name shall be entered on a list of such licentiates to be kept by the said college."

Section 22 declares that the "General Medical Council may require information as to examination."

Section 23 provides that the General Medical Council may represent defects in examinations in such colleges to H. Majesty's Privy Council.

Section 24 provides that the Privy Council may revoke "if they see fit," a certificate granted by any such body (college).

Section 25. The consequence of such revocation is that persons possessing certificates from such college shall not be entitled to register.

Section 26 provides: "Privy Council may prohibit attempts to impose restrictions as to any theory of dentistry by bodies entitled to grant certificates."

Section 27 provides that "A certificate under this Act shall not confer any right or title to be registered under the Medical Act, 1858, in respect of such certificate, nor to assume any name, title or designation implying that the person mentioned in the certificate is by law recognized as a licentiate or practitioner in medicine or general surgery."

Section 28 contains provision for conduct of examination by medical boards, if established.

Section 29 is devoted to evidence of registration.

Section 30 specifies exemption of registered persons from serving on juries, at inquests, corporate, parochial, ward, hundred and township offices, and from the militia.

The remaining four sections are devoted to: "Exercise of powers by Privy Council; penalty on wilful falsification of registers; penalty on obtaining registration by false representations; notice of death of practitioners; provision for certain students; by-laws, services of notices by post and recovery of penalties."

The Medical Act of 1886 refers to dentists specifically in Section 26, and refers to modifications or amendments or annulment of certain provisions affecting Sections 4, 5, 28 of the Dentists' Act of 1878.

NOTE.—The foregoing excerpts give the essential facts of the English law as it now stands. I am informed that new dental legislation is pending.

"Athens, Greece, February 16, 1912.

Greece.

"In order to practise dentistry in this country, it is necessary, if one has not a diploma from a foreign dental college of standing, to obtain a diploma from the University of Athens, which represents a two years' course in dentistry and allied subjects, and to pay a fee of forty drachmas ($7.72). If one has a diploma from a reputable foreign college, such as the American institutions you mention (Universities of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Iowa, California, Minnesota, Harvard, Vanderbilt, Valparaiso at Chicago), one is required to pass an examination in dentistry before the Board of Health and to pay a fee of four hundred drachmas ($77.20). The examination is conducted in either the Greek, French or German language.

"After obtaining a license, a dentist is subject to the graded 'professional' tax, which ranges from seventy-nine drachmas ($15.25) to five hundred and forty-seven drachmas ($105.57) a year, depending upon the income he receives from the practice of his profession.

"In regard to possible openings in Greece for American dentists, I may say that two excellent English dentists have been established in Athens for a number of years, who have a considerable and paying practice among the class of people whom an American dentist would naturally look to for his practice. Whether the field is large enough to support another dentist is questionable. Outside of the city of Athens, I should think it unlikely that there is an opening for an American dentist."

"Guatemala City, Guatemala, February 29, 1912.

Guatemala. "The graduate of a reputable dental college of the United States, before practising his profession in Guatemala is required to pass an examination in Spanish before the official faculty having the oversight of dentistry. The person desiring to practise dentistry may, however, associate himself with a dentist already having a Guatemalan license, and practise nominally as the latter's assistant."

"Port au Prince, Hayti.

Hayti. "It is required that all dentists, before being permitted to practise, must pass an examination before the Medical Board of Hayti. It would be well to be acquainted with the French language, as that is the language of the country."

"Amsterdam, Holland, February 13, 1912.

Holland. "There are only four American universities recognized in any way in this country, and they are the universities of Pennsylvania, Michigan, Vanderbilt and the Chicago College of Dental Surgery. Persons holding dental diplomas from any of them must undergo an examination before being admitted to practice here. Graduates from any other universities or colleges in the United States have to complete the regular dental course in one of the universities of Holland (Utrecht, Leyden, or Gronigen), which course is five years.

"The law provides that the examination shall be held in the Dutch language, but in some cases applicants have been allowed to pass the examination in the English or German language.

"There is not a good opening in this country for American dentists any more. The profession is now fairly crowded, among it many practitioners with American diplomas."

"Ceiba, Honduras.

Honduras. "Neither diploma nor examination is necessary in order to practise dentistry in this country."

"Budapest, Hungary, February 19, 1912.

Hungary. "To practise dentistry in Hungary, a degree of M.D. is required, and, in consequence, a diploma from a dental college is of no value unless the holder happens to have a medical degree also. There is little or no opening in Hungary for an American dentist, as far as I have been able to ascertain. There are several dentists here who have studied in America, but no native American."

"Madras, India, December 11, 1911.

India.

"There are no laws dealing with the practice of dentistry in India, and no examining board. The only requirement imposed on regularly graduated dentists in India before they can practise their profession, is for the dentist to take out a license, which is simply in the nature of a municipal tax.

"There are openings for dentists in India; every large city has at least one European dentist. The status of the American dentist is the same as that of the English; American university graduates have a good standing in the profession."

"Dublin, Ireland.

Ireland.

"I am told by the most eminent dentist here that a foreign diploma will not be accepted, and that the candidate will have to pass the examination set for the purpose of admission."

"Rome, Italy, February 12, 1912.

Italy.

"According to existing Italian legislation, no foreigner is allowed to practise dentistry in Italy, unless such foreigner has regularly acquired a professional diploma in an institution of a foreign country which concedes reciprocal rights for the exercise of the profession to persons graduated in Italy.

"In case the reciprocal rights, above referred to, are non-existent, aliens may not practise dentistry in Italy unless passing examination and obtaining an Italian diploma of surgery and dentistry."

Kingston, Jamaica, February 15, 1912.

Jamaica.

The Dental Practitioners' Law (Law 11 of 1905) makes provision for the registration of persons practising dentistry in Jamaica.

Section 1.—Enacts that the office of the Registrar General of Births and Deaths shall be the registry of qualified dental practitioners and that the Registrar General of Births and Deaths shall be the Registrar.

Sec. 2.—Provides for the opening of the register of qualified dental practitioners on the first of October, 1905.

Sec. 6.—Enacts that the following persons, upon satisfying the Registrar by such documentary or other evidence of their right to be registered and upon payment of a registration fee of one guinea, shall be entitled to be registered under this law.

(a) Any person qualified or entitled to practise dentistry in the United Kingdom under any act for the time being in force.

(b) Any person who at the passing of this law, is bona fide engaged in the practice of dentistry in this island and who holds a diploma, license or certificate granted to him by any university, college or institution recognized by the Governor in Privy Council, after and in consequence of his having passed through the course of study and examination in dentistry, prescribed in such university, college or institution.

(c) Any person who at the passing of this law, is and has been for not less than three years bona fide engaged in the practice of dentistry in this island and whom the Governor in Privy Council for special cause shown, permits to be registered without examination.

Sections 8, 9 and 10 provide as follows:

8.—Any person who at the passing of this law is bona fide engaged in the practice of dentistry in this island; and also any person not qualified to be registered under Section 6 of this law, but who holds a diploma, license or certificate granted to him by any university, college or institution recognized by the Governor in Privy Council, after and in consequence of his having passed through the course of study and examination in dentistry prescribed by such university, college or institution, and who wishes to be registered under this law, may make application in writing to the Governor to appoint a Board of Examiners.

9.—On receipt of such application the Governor shall appoint three persons, duly registered under this law, as a Board of Examiners and the persons so appointed shall thereupon fix a time and place for holding the examinations.

10.—The candidate shall first satisfy the Board of Examiners that he was at the date of the passing of this law, bona fide engaged in the practice of dentistry in this island or that he holds a diploma, license or certificate granted to him as aforesaid, and the Board of Examiners, if so satisfied, shall with reasonable despatch, fully and fairly examine such candidate accordingly; and if they find him sufficiently informed and skilled, they shall give him a certificate to that effect, and he shall then be registered under this law, upon payment of the registration fee.

Mr. M. Solomon (of the Island Medical Office) has been appointed secretary.

"Yokohama, Japan, February 27th, 1912.

Japan.

"License to practise dentistry in Japan will be granted to a foreigner residing in this country, and possessing a diploma from a reputable dental college and a license to practise dentistry in his or her country, and whom the Minister of Home Affairs recognizes as a proper and duly qualified person. Reciprocal treatment is based on the treatment of Japanese applicants in the majority of the States of the United States, in the absence of any national law. The application for license must be filed in Japanese, together with a biographical sketch of the applicant, certificate of nationality, the diploma and license, its translation, etc. When the applicant is not known to the Home Department, inquiries and investigation as to his or her physical condition, record, character and standing in his or her own country are made, and, if found satisfactory, the license will be granted. I am informed that these investigations take at least three months, and sometimes as long as a year. The government fee for issuing the license is twenty yen ($9.96)."

The Dental Law of Japan (Law No. 48 of the 39th year of Meiji, 1906) provides:

Article I. Any person who wishes to become a dentist is required to have one of the following qualifications, and obtain license from the Minister of State for Home Affairs: (1) that he has graduated from a dental school designated by the Minister of Education; (2) that he has succeeded in passing the examination for dental practice; (3) that he has not only graduated from a foreign dental school or obtained license for dental practice in a foreign country, but that it is recognized as equal to what is required by orders.

Article II. Any person coming under any of the following clauses is not allowed to obtain license for dental practice: (1) that he has been sentenced for major offence (this, however, does not apply to any person who has been punished for a political offence); (2) that his civil rights are in suspension; (3) that he has not attained proper age, or has been adjudged incompetent or quasi-incompetent, or is deaf, dumb, or blind.

Article III. The license may not be granted to a person who has been either punished with imprisonment or fined in connection with medical affairs.

Article IV. The Dentists' Register shall be kept at the Department for Home Affairs, and particulars relating to dental license shall be therein registered. Particulars of registration shall be determined by orders.

Article V. No dentist is allowed to issue a medical certificate, write a prescription, or treat a patient, unless he personally examines such patients.

Article VI. The dentist shall keep a note-book, and register therein the name, age, residence, occupation, disease, and treatment of every patient treated. The note-book shall be preserved for ten years.

Article VII. No dentist is allowed to make a false advertisement by exaggerating his art, or announce that he has a secret method of treatment.

Article VIII. Dentists may establish a Dentists' Association. Regulations for the Dentists' Association shall be determined by the Minister of State for Home Affairs.

Article IX. The Dentists' Association may answer inquiries of the government authorities, or give advice to them concerning dental and sanitary affairs.

Article X. The license of any dentist who comes under the first or third clause of Article II shall be revoked. When a dentist is punished with imprisonment, or is fined, or commits a wicked act in connection with his profession, his license shall be revoked, or his practice shall be suspended for a period of certain length. The same applies if such event had taken place before he obtained his license. A dentist, whose license has been revoked according to the present article, may regain it when the cause stated in the third clause of Article II ceases, or the fact that he is truly repentant is beyond suspicion. The revocation stated in the present Article shall be executed by the Minister of State for Home Affairs; in the case, however, stated in the second clause, or in the later half of the third clause, such step shall be taken through the deliberation of the Central Board of Health.

Article XI. Any person who practises dentistry without a license, or while his practice is in suspension, or who violates Articles V., VI., and VII., shall be liable to a penalty of not exceeding three hundred yen ($149.40).

Article XII. The present law shall take effect on and after the first day of October, of the 39th year of Meiji (1906).

Article XIII. The license for dental practice issued before the present law takes effect, shall be valid, even after the present law takes effect.

Imperial Ordinance No. 245 of 1906, concerning those persons entitled to license according to the third clause of Article I. of the law governing dentists: Only those persons are entitled to license for dental practice according to the third clause of Article I. of the Law Concerning Dentists, who has not only obtained a diploma from a foreign dental school, or license for dental practice in a foreign country, but who are adjudged by the Minister of Home Affairs as properly qualified. (Translation.)

"Batavia, Java.

Java. "I beg to inform you that no diploma from any foreign (non-Dutch) dental college is recognized in Java. Should a person wish to practise in this colony, he must pass an examination either in Holland or here, and it would be advisable to pass in the former place, as no American could pass the examination in Java.

"Having passed the required examination in Holland and obtained a Dutch diploma, no objection could be raised by the authorities here to such party practising."

"Seoul, Chosen (Korea), February 28, 1912.

Korea. "Graduates of recognized foreign dental schools, who possess the qualifications required by the laws of Japan, may obtain license to practise dentistry in Chosen. Control in these matters is vested in the Director of Internal Affairs Department and the Chief of Gendarmerie and Police of the Government General of Chosen (Korea)."

"Monrovia, Liberia, February 28, 1912.

Liberia. "There are no restrictions whatever placed on a competent dental practitioner in Liberia, and, so far as I know, there is not one located within the confines of the Republic. While the country is in need of good dentists, it is doubtful, in my opinion, if the work among the civilized people is sufficient in quantity to keep one doctor busy all the time, should he locate in any one of the centres of population in the Republic; but, if the man should travel from one place to the other within the Republic, I feel sure that he would be able to obtain all the work he could do."

"Tamatave, Madagascar.

Madagascar. "No one is permitted to practise dentistry in Madagascar without possessing a French diploma in that profession. The French law of November, 1892, prohibiting the practice of medicine and dentistry without possessing a French diploma was made applicable in the Colony of Madagascar on June 5, 1901."

"Malta, November 28, 1911.

Malta. "The Chief of the Public Health Department informs me that the presentation of a diploma from a satisfactory school, and personal identification, are the only requirements.

"In regard to the reputation of American dentists here, I can say that it is most satisfactory. There are no American dentists in Malta, but most of the British garrison, and those Maltese who have lived abroad, or travelled on the Continent, have heard of the excellence of the American dentist. Graduation from a department of dentistry of any of the universities you mention (Pennsylvania, Michigan, California, Iowa, Vanderbilt, Northwestern, Harvard and Valparaiso at Chicago) would be considered highly satisfactory here.

"I should advise any American dentist who desires to practise in Malta to have the head of the faculty of his department attach a certificate, attested before a notary, to a copy of the catalogue of the university giving the curriculum of the department of dentistry, and stating that it is the course taken by the graduate who is presenting his diploma for approval. With a passport from the American government as identification, he would have no difficulty, especially if he will take the trouble to call at the Consulate and be introduced to the health authorities.

"I may say that what I have written must not be taken to mean that I am advising any young American dentist to settle here. Success depends upon so many different things, and so much upon the individual that I am afraid to advise in the matter. Malta is also a foreign country and the customs are different."

"Mukden, Manchuria.

Manchuria.

"So far as Manchuria is concerned, no examination or license is required. Manchuria, however, at present does not offer any hopeful field for American dentists. The number of foreigners resident here is very small, and the Chinese are comparatively free from the need of dental services. When they do require them, they seem to obtain satisfaction from the Japanese dentists in practice here, whose fees are smaller than an American dentist could afford to charge."

"City of Mexico, Mexico, February 3, 1912.

Mexico.

"I am informed that for a person to practise dentistry here, it is not longer necessary to register a diploma, but the party is only required to call at the Municipal Tax Office of the town in which he locates, register and thereafter pay a small monthly tax.

"Further, as to openings which exist in Mexico for American dentists, I have to say that there are many American dentists in each of the large cities in Mexico, but we all know that success in any business or profession depends upon the man himself.

However, I certainly suggest that no professional man should come to Mexico unless he is in a comparatively good financial position."

"Tangier, Morocco, March 22, 1912.

Morocco.

"Owing to the regime of extra territoriality existing in Morocco (by which all matters legal or otherwise, appertaining to the subjects of foreign powers resident in Morocco, are left to the regulation of the nation of which the person is a subject) there are no qualifications required for the practice of dentistry in this country. A certificate of graduation, however, would become indispensable to any person desiring to practise dentistry here, as otherwise the confidence of this community would be entirely lacking, and this would result in a serious hindrance to the establishment of a practice among the best classes of the population.

"There is undoubtedly a demand for a qualified dentist at the present time in Morocco."

NOTE.—As we are about to go to press we learn that a treaty has just been signed in Paris by the Sultan of Morocco, making Morocco a Protectorate of France. Under these circumstances it is probable that the French Dental Law will be enforced in Morocco.

"Nassau, New Providence I., November 1, 1911.

New Providence I. "There are no laws governing the practice of dentistry in Nassau. With a population of about 14,000, of whom about 9000 are negroes, and two dentists in regular practice in the city, there hardly seems to be room for more, though American dentists sometimes come here for the winter season and seem to get a fair amount of work.

"No special qualifications are needed for practice here and no license is required. Diplomas from American colleges or universities of good standing, are highly regarded."

"Auckland, New Zealand, March 14, 1912.

New Zealand. "The Dental College of the University of Pennsylvania is well known in New Zealand, and a diploma from that and similar institutions of equal merit would be considered equivalent to a degree in dental surgery of the University of New Zealand. The city of Auckland is well supplied with dentists, including one prominent American establishment which has a branch in Wellington, and several other practitioners who were educated in dentistry at the University of Pennsylvania. I know of no particular opening.

"The Dental Act of 1908 (consolidating all previous Acts) provides:

"Section 10. Every adult person shall be entitled, on application to the Registrar-General and on payment of the prescribed fee, to be registered as a dentist who

"(a) Is registered or is entitled to be registered in the United Kingdom in accordance with the law for the time being in force therein as a dentist or medical practitioner; or

"(b) Is the holder of a degree in dental surgery of the University of New Zealand, or has gone through such course of study and professional practice and training, passed such examinations and obtained from the Senate (of the university) such certificate of proficiency in dental surgery or dentistry as the Senate by regulations prescribes; or

"(c) Is entitled, in accordance with the provisions of this Act, to be registered as a foreign or British dentist.'

"Section 12. Any person showing that he holds some recognized certificate as hereinafter defined, granted in a British possession, and that he is of good character, shall upon payment of the fees be entitled, without examination, to be registered under this Act.'

"Section 13. Any person showing that he holds some recognized certificate as hereinafter defined, granted in a foreign country, and that he is of good character, and either continues to hold such certificate or has not been deprived thereof for any cause which disqualifies him for being registered under this Act, shall upon payment of the fees be entitled, without examination, to be registered under this Act.'

"Section 14. The certificate granted in a British possession or in a foreign country which is to be deemed such a recognized certificate as is required for the purposes of this Act, shall be such certificate, diploma, membership, degree, license, letters, testimonials or other title, status or document as may be recognized by the Senate as entitling the holder thereof to practise dentistry or dental surgery in such possession or country and as furnishing sufficient guarantee of the possession of the requisite knowledge and skill for the efficient practise of dentistry or dental surgery.'"

"Christiana, Norway, February 21, 1912.

Norway. "An American, although he is in possession of a diploma from a reputable American dental college, from which he has graduated, will not be permitted to practise dentistry in Norway, until he shall have passed an examination before the Norwegian Dental Examining Board."

"Legacion de Panama, Washington, D. C.

Panama. "Any person holding a diploma from a reputable dental college from anywhere in the world can practise dentistry here, provided that the applicant pass an examination before a board appointed for that purpose, and upon payment of a fee of $50 for a certificate."

"Asuncion, Paraguay.

Paraguay. "Diplomas from American dental colleges are not accepted here. Diplomas from the colleges of the Argentine Republic, from Uruguay and from Peru entitle the possessor to practise in Paraguay without examination, but American dentists would be obliged to pass the examination before the local board. Three American dentists are now practising in Paraguay. I would not advise a dentist to come here unless under a contract. Spanish is the language of the country, and a dentist should understand and speak that tongue in order to be successful."

"Legation de Perse, Washington, D. C.

Persia. "If a graduate of a reputable American dental college wishes to practise his profession in Persia, his diploma must be certified by the proper authorities, viz.: By the Secretary of State in his own State, by the Secretary of State of the United States, and then the Legation will certify the Secretaries of State and the U. S. seal. The applicant must have practised dentistry for three years. This is all that is required."

"Callao, Peru, December 27th, 1911.

Peru. "The Peruvian regulations require that physicians and dentists who are graduates of foreign universities, and who desire to practise their profession in Peru, shall present themselves before the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Lima, bringing with them the diploma of the university from which they have graduated, with the signatures properly legalized by the Peruvian Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and a certificate of personal identity issued by the Minister or Consul of the nation of the applicant resident in Lima. In the absence of these officially, there must be produced a legal identification by witnesses.

"Graduate dentists of foreign universities must pay the fees of matriculation, which amount to $244, and stand two examinations in this order: 1. Theoretical, which comprises anatomy and physiology of the mouth; 2. Theoretical-practical, which comprises pathology of the mouth, and the performance of one operation in dental surgery.

"The requirements for surgeon dentists who desire taking the examinations above referred to are the same as those exacted of physicians and surgeons, namely: The fees, which are to be paid before taking the examinations, amount to $493 American currency, which is the equivalent of the dues incurred by an alumnus receiving his medical instruction in the University of Lima. The examinations are five in number, and are taken in the following order:

"1. Theoretical-practical. The theoretical comprises descriptive, general, normal, and pathological, anatomy, and general and human physiology. The practical consists in actual dissection of the cadaver, together with a proper description of such dissection.

"2. Theoretical-practical. The theoretical comprises general pathology, and internal and external nosography, while the practical consists in the performance of one or two surgical operations upon the cadaver.

"3. Theoretical, which comprises medical natural history, medical chemistry, and medical physics.

"4. Theoretical, which embraces therapeutics, and materia medica, medical jurisprudence and toxicology, and hygiene.

"5. Practical, which comprises the clinical examination of a patient, another of surgery, and another of obstetrics; also, diagnosis, treatment, and clinical histories.

"Persons in the United States contemplating practising these professions in Peru, and desiring more detailed information than is here presented, or printed copies of the exact laws, regulations, etc., governing such matters, should invariably address themselves to the Dean of the Faculty of Medicine of the University of Lima (El Decano de la Facultad de Medicina de la Universidad de Lima), Dr. Ernesto Odriozola, Lima, Peru."

"In reply to your question, I will state that none but graduates from reputable colleges are eligible for examination in the Philippines."

"Lisbon, Portugal, January 19th, 1912.

Portugal.

"The new law has been signed by the Minister, and, I am informed, allows only doctors of medicine to practise dentistry.

To-day, however, I interviewed one of the most prominent dentists here, who told me that several important modifications are to be made in the near future, and that it would be useless to report on the law in its present form."

"Frankfort-on-Main, Prussia, March 9, 1912.

Prussia.

"The practice of dentistry is open in Prussia to anyone who pays the required fee, and causes his name to be inscribed in the Gewerbe-Register (Industrial Register).

"Formerly, academic titles conferred by foreign institutions of learning were pretty generally recognized, but since 1897 the situation is as follows:

"According to a decree of April 7, 1897, foreigners residing in Prussia cannot make use of an academic title conferred by an institution outside of the German Empire, unless special permission has been obtained from the Prussian Ministry for Religious, Educational, and Medical Affairs. This decree did not apply to titles conferred before that date. There are consequently a number of American dentists here, established before 1897, who are allowed to make use of titles conferred on them by American dental schools.

"At present, an American dentist can practise here after inscribing his name in the Gewerbe-Register, but he cannot call himself Zahnarzt unless he has obtained permission from the Prussian Ministry in Berlin. In the local directory, dentists who have received their degrees in Germany are classed as Zahnaerzte (dentists), whereas those who have been prepared abroad are called Zahnheilkundige—approbiert im Ausland (Skilled in dentistry—examined abroad).

"There are a considerable number of American dentists at Frankfort, and it is doubtful if there is much opportunity here for young dentists, unless they should be taken into some well-established office. In some of the smaller German cities there are still good opportunities for American dentists."

"Bucharest, Roumania.

Roumania.

"The dentist in Roumania applies for a license to practise under the Roumanian Sanitary Law, which provides for the licensure of physicians, dentists, veterinarians, pharmacists, and midwives. The authority of the Minister of the Interior, published in the official Monitor, is necessary. The right to practise the above professions is given to possessors of academic degrees granted by schools in Roumania, and holders of degrees and diplomas bestowed by foreign faculties upon Roumanian subjects; similar rights are granted to persons born in the country (not citizens) who have received their secondary education in Roumania.

"Persons possessing foreign diplomas must, in order to obtain the right to practise, first pass an examination. Only those persons who hold diplomas deemed equivalent to those provided for according to the law on instruction, are admitted to take the examination.

The examination is conducted by the General Board of the Sanitary Service, under the supervision of a Council composed as follows: For dentists, of two members being surgeons of the Superior Sanitary Council, and one dentist named by the Sanitary Board. Candidates for examination must pay the fees pertaining thereto. Doctors of medicine, veterinary surgeons, and pharmacists must pay three hundred lei (francs), equal to about $47.90 U. S. currency. A special regulation will determine the matter of holding such examination, and the payment of fees.'

Article 83 provides: "Dentistry, as is the case with any other specialty of medical practice, cannot be practised by persons other than doctors of medicine, having obtained such right according to the terms of this law, and having a diploma or certificate which confers the right to practise dentistry in this country. Dentists without the degree of doctor of medicine, but who have studied their specialty in a school of dentistry, and who have been engaged in the practice of dentistry four years prior to the time of the promulgation of this law, shall continue to have such right to practise. All those who have obtained the right to practise under previous legislation shall continue to enjoy the right to practise. Persons without academic degrees, and designated as "dental mechanics" will only be allowed to work in connection with doctors and dentists who practise according to the terms of this law."

In regard to Secret Partnerships, Article 83 provides: "The formation of a partnership by which such a person (dental mechanic) places himself under the protection of a doctor of medicine who does not practise dentistry, for the purpose of thus practising in an illegal manner this specialty of medicine, is considered as a violation of the law, and the offender will be prosecuted. A doctor who is proven to have conveyed to another by such a secret understanding, a right which according to the law is absolutely personal, shall be subjected to a fine of from two hundred to two thousand lei (francs), and the person who has profited by such a right, which the law does not recognize as belonging to him, shall be considered as practising medicine illegally, and shall be prosecuted according to the terms of Art. 88."

"St. Petersburg, Russia, February 19th, 1912.

Russia.

"All persons wishing to practise dentistry in Russia are required to produce a certificate showing that they have graduated from at least six classes of a high school (gymnasium), and must pass their examinations, conducted in the Russian language. These examinations are held in an Imperial Military Medical Academy or an Imperial Russian University, and are as follows:

"Theoretical: 1.—General pathology and pathological anatomy. 2.—Pharmacology and medical prescription as applied in the practice of dentistry. 3.—Pathology and therapeutics of the hollow of the mouth and teeth and hygiene of the same.

“Practical: 4.—Anatomy and physiology of the hollow of the mouth, with demonstration of anatomical preparations. 5.—Clinical examination in connection with the practice of dentistry. 6.—Technics appertaining to artificial teeth and filling of teeth, with demonstration of technical process.

“All graduates of foreign dental colleges must take the examinations in order to obtain a license to practise.”

“San Salvador, Salvador.

Salvador. “Neither diploma nor examination is necessary in order to practise dentistry in this Consular District. Honduras and Salvador are the same in regard to requirements.”

“Dresden, Saxony, February 28th, 1912.

Saxony. “There is no Saxon dental law, the practice of dentistry being governed by Imperial laws, which are very voluminous. The conditions and requirements for practising dentistry in Germany are briefly as follows: Neither license nor diploma is required to practise, nor is there any examination. There are two classes of dentists; the Zahnarzt, who has attended a dental school attached to a German University, and who receives a license (not diploma) upon passing his examinations; and the Zahnkünstler or Zahntechniker, who has taken no course of lectures. The latter is allowed to practise dentistry as a business, as German law provides that every man is entitled to earn his living at his trade. It is under the latter head that the American dentist is allowed to locate and practise.

“The American diploma is not recognized by law, and the use of the American degree is prohibited on the ground that no foreign degree shall be recognized which does not obtain in Germany, and also from the fact that American dental colleges are not under State control, and are therefore looked upon as being inferior (or at least the diploma) to those in Germany. The use even of business or visiting cards bearing the D. D. S. or degree is prohibited. In my opinion, there is no opening for further American dentists in Saxony, as each large city has from two to six American dentists already practising, in addition to numerous German dentists.”

“Edinburgh, Scotland, April 11, 1912.

Scotland. “Dentistry has made great progress in this country during the last twenty years. Facilities for dental education have been increased and improved, and the requirements for obtaining the license have been advanced. As a result, the standard of the profession is now high, not a few of the members having had six or twelve months' experience of practical work in leading American dental colleges, or in the offices of prominent American dentists, after passing the examinations here.

"The question you put as to the conditions under which an American graduate may be admitted to the examinations of the college is one that has not infrequently been put to me by gentlemen who desire to practise here or in a British Colony. I should draw your attention first of all to the fact that a license to practise dentistry is only obtained by registration on the Dentists' Register which in turn can only be obtained by holders of a British degree or license, which again can now only be obtained by fulfilling the required curriculum of study and passing the prescribed examinations.

"The curriculum in American dental schools differs somewhat from that in force here, so far as what may be called the general subjects (as Anatomy, Physiology, Medicine, Surgery, and attendance at a general hospital) are concerned. Then, again, an examination in general or preliminary education, while insisted on here, is quite generally dispensed with in America. As a consequence, it very seldom (never in my experience) happens that an American L.D.S. is in a position to at once satisfy the requirements of the college in respect to his curriculum, and the absence of any proof of having passed any preliminary examination is often a stumbling block.

"The holders of certain degrees or licenses in dental surgery recognized by the college will be admitted to the First and Second Professional Examinations, with exemption in the subjects of chemistry and physics, provided they produce evidence (a) of having passed a satisfactory preliminary examination in general education, (b) of having completed the curriculum of professional study required by these regulations, and (c) of having passed the required professional examinations for their degree or license in dental surgery. The following are the degrees and licenses at present recognized:

D.M.D.—University of Harvard.

D.D.S.—University of Pennsylvania.

D.D.S.—University of Michigan.

License of Dental Board of Victoria, Australia.

Bac. Den. Surg.—University of Sydney, Australia.

Every candidate for a license to practise dental surgery must produce certificates showing:

1. That he is 21 years of age.
2. That he has been registered as a dental student.
3. That he has completed his period of attendance on all the subjects for the examinations desired.

4. That he has subsequently to the date of registration been engaged in professional study for at least four years.

5. That he has attended courses of instruction in the following general subjects of a recognized medical school: (a) Chemistry, with laboratory instruction, for at least five months, and Physics, with laboratory instruction, for at least two and a half months; (b) Human Anatomy—Lectures, for at least five months; (c) Dissections, with demonstrations, for ten months; (d) Physiology, with laboratory instruction, for five months; (e) Surgery, including Surgical Pathology, for five months; (f) Medicine, including Medical Pathology, for five months; (g) The practice of a recognized General Hospital, with certified instruction in Clinical Surgery and Clinical Medicine, for a period of at least twelve months.

The requirements which American graduates have most difficulty in satisfying are embodied in Section 5 of the foregoing, and the important question is—how are these difficulties surmounted? I think a good man, not afraid of work, if he can get over the preliminary examination difficulty, might manage to get in the balance of the curriculum in one year—though it really means hard work. As regards the purely dental part of the curriculum, the college recognizes qualifying courses of instruction given at any reputable school, so there is usually no difficulty about that part, the only exception perhaps being Comparative Dental Anatomy. At any rate, all subjects can be overtaken in twelve months, the first professional examination certainly should be passed at the end of that time; and if the candidate is an exceptionally good, earnest student, the final also is possible.

You should understand that here we have three bodies concerned in dental education, viz:

1. The Medical Council, which prescribes the curriculum and keeps the dental register.

2. The Royal College of Surgeons, which conducts the examination and grants the diploma.

3. The Dental Hospital and School, which provides the instruction.

This multiplication and complexity of governing bodies is not easily understood by your graduates, accustomed to a simpler order of things."

"Belgrade, Servia.

Servia.

"The Servian Law requires the same qualifications from dentists as from practising physicians, viz.: Par. 9. of the amended Law of 1904 relative to physicians says: 'Every physician, including dentists, who desires to obtain the right to freely practise in Servia, has to be a Servian citizen, must have graduated as doctor of medicine, or possess certificate from a medical college of equal academic rank; he has, besides, to pass a Government examination in Servia, before a committee composed of members of the General Medical Council, and has to serve for one year as assistant physician at one of the State hospitals named by the Minister of the Interior. The last quoted provision does not apply to candidates who can prove that after they have graduated as doctor of medicine they have spent one year as students at some recognized foreign hospital or clinic."

Siberia.

"Before foreign dentists can permanently locate and practise in Russia or Siberia, it is necessary for them to pass the Russian examination. Special permits are, however, occasionally granted for the purpose of practising temporarily, a time limit being fixed. While there are a number of dentists in this city, they are not, as a rule, acquainted with up-to-date methods, and there is undoubtedly a good opening for American dentists in some of the larger cities of Siberia."

~~"Cape Town, South Africa, March 23, 1912.~~

"Up to date, no restrictions have been imposed on the practice of dentistry. A diploma of any leading dental college in America receives due recognition.

"As to openings in the Straits Settlements, there have been several American dentists practising in this district from time to time, and at present I know of two, one of whom at least is meeting with considerable success. The other is catering more to the native and Chinese trade. I believe that a first-class dentist catering to the European trade would be successful."

"Barcelona, Spain, February 22d, 1912.

Spain.

"Persons possessing dental diplomas from foreign universities and desiring to practise in Spain must pass the regular prescribed examination. This will be given, upon request, in the language of the applicant. Openings for the practice of dentistry are few, and foreigners are discouraged from coming in every way possible."

"Requirements for the practice of dental surgery in Spain: 'In order to practise dentistry in Spain, it is first necessary to make application for permission to do so to the Minister of Public Instruction at Madrid. The registration tax is 230 pesetas (about $40), payable when the permission to practise has been granted."

"Singapore, S. S., March 15th, 1912.

~~"Straits Settlements~~ "With reference to the status of a dentist holding a diploma from a United States Dental College, I am informed as follows: Since 1898, no diploma issuing from the United States of America has been recognized here, unless the party holding it was Colonial-born. A native of this Colony holding a diploma from such universities as those of Pennsylvania, Harvard and Michigan, will be allowed to practise without further qualifications. If, however, the applicant is not native-born, he must have studied under a local dentist for two years or over, and have afterwards spent another two years in pursuing his studies in England; the alternative being that he must have spent four years in England; in either case receiving an English diploma.

"It will be noted that so far diplomas issuing from the three universities named are the only ones which have been recognized, even in the case of the Colonial-born applicants."

"Stockholm, Sweden, February 28, 1912.

Sweden.

"For a dentist to practise dentistry in Sweden, he must be a Swedish student and have taken the Swedish examination, before obtaining a position as assistant to a Swedish dentist; second, he must become a Swedish citizen. If he is in possession of an American diploma, he can apply to the king to get dispensation without examination. There are no exceptional opportunities for American dentists in this country."

"Zurich, Switzerland, February 16, 1912.

Switzerland.

"It is practically impossible for a foreigner to obtain a license to practise dentistry in the Confederation, without taking the regular course in the schools of the country, requiring at least three years before he can be designated for the examination, which must be in German, and presents many difficulties. A diploma from an American college gives the holder no privileges or advantages. They are not accepted in Switzerland. One American dentist in Zurich has been practising as an understudy with a Swiss for ten years. He has a diploma from the University of Pennsylvania, and has an excellent reputation in his profession, but he has never been able to obtain a license to practise in his own name, notwithstanding that he has powerful influences back of him, even to men high up in the profession and in the College of Dental Surgery in the Swiss University.

"American dentists stand high in Switzerland, as they do elsewhere in Europe, but, as above stated, the law and the opposition of dentists in the country make it practically impossible to obtain permission to practise. The American dentists here are Swiss citizens, who got their degrees in American colleges."

"Jerusalem, Syria, March 15, 1912.

Syria.

"The Turkish regulations provide that a foreigner, in order to practise dentistry, must be possessed of a diploma from some regularly recognized foreign dental school, and that this diploma must be registered with the local government at the place where the dentist in question desires to locate. In fact, however, there seems to be little desire on the part of the Jerusalem Government to enforce these regulations.

"While there is not now so good an opportunity for an American dentist as existed two years ago (an Englishman having established himself here within that period), there still remains a fairly profitable field for moderate priced work. With the exception of the English dentist already referred to, there is also a properly qualified German and a large number of others whose qualifications are doubtful. Any American with a diploma from one of the institutions you mention (Universities of Pennsylvania, Iowa, California, Harvard, Minnesota, Vanderbilt, Michigan, Valparaiso at Chicago, Northwestern University), would have no difficulty in securing a permit to practise dentistry.

"The Syrian Protestant College at Beirut, Syria, has recently opened a course in dentistry, and in a few years the graduates of this school will probably have filled any available opportunities in this part of Turkey. I would suggest that any person who contemplates coming to Syria to practise ought to correspond with the professor of dentistry at the aforementioned college."

"Beirut, Syria, March 20, 1912.

"The laws of Turkey to-day require that all who desire to practise dentistry within the Ottoman Empire must be in legal possession of a diploma from a recognized dental school such as the University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, etc., must present the same at Constantinople to the Imperial Medical Council, who will license the applicant after a pro forma colloquial examination. This is done at an expense of about twelve pounds sterling.

"Should the applicant fail to give satisfaction at the above mentioned examination, he is given another chance, at a later date, when the examination is a full examination in writing of all of the regular dental subjects, which are pretty much the same as those of the dental requirements of the United States. The examinations are all conducted either in French or in Turkish, no other language being acceptable.

"Openings for American dentists do exist in Syria, but he must be a brave man who will leave the United States to face the trials and tribulations of a dentist in Turkey. Two dental schools exist in Turkey to-day: the American School at Beirut, and the Imperial School at Constantinople."

"The procedure in the case of dentists

Transvaal. desirous of becoming registered to practise in the Transvaal is identical with that prescribed in respect of the registration of medical practitioners. * * * A similar form of declaration of identity is required from a dentist as from a medical practitioner. The fee for registration is ten pounds (about $50). All dental degrees, diplomas or qualifications recognized by the General Medical Council of the United Kingdom are accepted for registration in the Transvaal."

"Tunisia, Northern Africa.

Tunisia. "The laws governing the granting of a license to practise dentistry in Tunisia are the same as those of France, i. e., two years of probationary work in a dentist's office or a laboratory of a dental college, and three years of actual attendance at a recognized dental college, and an examination before the Medical Faculty."

"Constantinople, Turkey, February 20th, 1912.

Turkey. "Foreigners desiring to practise dentistry in Turkey are required to send in their application (in Turkish) with their dental diploma to the Imperial Medical Council, Sublime Porte. Upon paying an entrance fee of fifteen Turkish pounds ($66.00), an examination is given in either the French or Turkish language; no interpreter is allowed. On a successful passing of this examination, a further fee of five Turkish pounds ($22.00) is paid, for which the applicant receives a diploma permitting him to practise in the Turkish Empire.

"The above requirements have only lately been put in practice; under the old regime, simple registration was all that was required, and even that was rarely attended to. Applicants are now required to have a preliminary education equivalent to the Batchelor of Arts degree of the secondary course in the Turkish schools. While there are many native dentists in Constantinople, there are only two Americans practising here, and both are doing fairly well. They practise principally among the foreign residents, as the native population does not pay very much attention to its teeth."

"Zanzibar, Zanzibar, November 27th, 1911.

Zanzibar. "There are no legal restrictions upon the practice of dentistry in the Sultanate of Zanzibar, and no qualifications are required. There is but one dentist in Zanzibar at this time who has received foreign training, so far as I can learn; there are, however, dentists (so-called) among the Indian and Arab population, who practise the profession.

"I submitted your question whether there was need for a dentist in Zanzibar to our most prominent physician here, and his answer was in the affirmative. He stated further that, in his opinion, a competent dentist who came here could make a good living. It seems necessary to explain that Zanzibar is a town of about 35,000 people, of whom only about 250 are Europeans or Americans; the remainder are British Indians, Arabs, Goans, etc. For anyone who came here to practise, it would be possible to go to British East Africa at stated periods to see his clients, and necessarily a proportion of the practice would be among the so-called inferior races.

"The climate of Zanzibar, while not bad, is certainly not good, and fever must be expected. In British East Africa, dentists are required to be registered, but, 'Any person who can satisfy the Registrar that he is entitled to be registered in the United Kingdom as a colonial or foreign dentist' is entitled to registration."

APPENDIX

AMENDED LAWS.

AMENDED LAWS

We have selected eight recently amended laws for publication, namely, Alabama, Kentucky, Minnesota, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Virginia and Wisconsin dental laws, because they represent typical legislation that may be anticipated in any one of the United States.

ALABAMA DENTAL LAW.

and the McKinnon Bill.

Approved March 21, 1911.

The McKinnon Bill.

An Act to provide for the regulation and licensing of dentists in the State of Alabama; to establish a Board of Dental Examiners, provide for their election, and prescribe their duties, powers, qualifications, terms of office and compensation; to provide for the examination of applicants to practise dentistry in the said State; to provide penalties and punishment for violation of the provisions of said Act, and to repeal all general and local laws in conflict with said Act.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of Alabama:

First.—That on and after the passage of this Act, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation not licensed as a dentist or dentists within the meaning of this Act, to engage in the practice of dentistry, or any of its branches, in this State; and it shall be unlawful for the owner or manager of a dental office, dental parlor, or other place of business, to cause or permit any person who is not duly and legally licensed as a dentist to practise dentistry, or any of its branches, in such office, parlor, or other place of business; provided, however, that if student of dentistry may be permitted to remain in an office and practise under the supervision of legal practitioner of dentistry in the interim between sessions for a total period of time not to exceed twelve months.

Second.—That all persons now registered or licensed as dentists under the laws of the State of Alabama, shall be entitled to continue in the practice of said profession unmolested by the provisions of this Act.

Third.—Any person who shall hereafter desire a license to practise dentistry in this State shall file, or cause to be filed with the Secretary of the Board of Dental Examiners an application in writing, and under oath setting forth the name and age of the applicant, the school or college from which he or she graduated; and shall appear at such time and place as may be designated by said Board of Dental Examiners and submit to an examination both practical and theoretical as to his or her qualifications for registration as a licensed dentist.

Fourth.—No person shall be licensed as a dentist under the provision of this Act who is not twenty-one years of age, and of good moral character; nor until he or she shall present to the said Board of Dental Examiners satisfactory evidence that he or she has graduated in dentistry at some reputable school or college of dentistry recognized by the National Association of Dental Faculties; and shall also, upon examination, attain an average grade of seventy-five per cent. on all dental branches.

Fifth.—That, if upon examination and investigation, said Board of Dental Examiners shall determine that the applicant possesses the necessary qualifications as to character and education as herein provided, they shall enroll his or her name upon a register to be kept by said board for that purpose, and, issue to him or her a license, which said license shall entitle such person to practise dentistry in the State of Alabama for life.

Sixth.—That on and after the passage of this Act it shall be unlawful for said Board of Examiners to grant a temporary license or permit to practise dentistry, or any of its branches to any person, firm, or corporation; except that a person coming into this State at a time between the regular meeting of the board, who holds a permanent license as a dentist granted by any Board of Dental Examiners within the United States, may be granted a permit to practice during the interim between the time of making application for a license and the time of the next meeting of said Board of Dental Examiners.

Article 9.—Dental Societies and the Practice of Dentistry.

Section 190. Definitions.—As used in this article, the terms "University," "Regents" and "physicians" have respectively the meanings defined in Article 8 of this chapter. "Board," where not otherwise limited, means the Board of Dental Examiners of the State of New York. "Registered medical or dental school" means a medical or dental school, college or department of a university, registered by the Regents as maintaining a proper educational standard and legally incorporated. "Examiner," where not otherwise qualified, means a member of the board. "State Dental Society" means the Dental Society of the State of New York.

Sec. 191. State Dental Society.—The Dental Society of the State of New York is continued, and shall be composed of eight delegates from each district society divided into four classes of two delegates, each to be elected annually, and of two delegates from each incorporated dental school of the State to be elected annually. The State Dental Society shall annually meet on the second Wednesday of May, or at such other time and at such place as may be determined on in the by-laws of the society or by resolution, at the preceding annual meeting. Twenty members shall be a quorum. The society shall elect annually a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, who shall hold their offices for one year, and until others shall be chosen in their places, and may elect not more than sixteen permanent members at any annual meeting from among eminent dentists of the State, who shall have all the privileges of delegate members. The society may elect honorary members from any State or county not eligible, to regular membership, who shall not be entitled to vote or hold any office in the society.

Sec. 192. District Dental Societies.—The existing district dental societies are continued. In any judicial district in which a district dental society is not now incorporated, fifteen or more dentists of such district authorized to practise dentistry in this State may become a district dental society of such district, by publishing a call for a meeting of the dentists of the district to be held at a time and place mentioned therein within the district, in at least one newspaper in each county of the district, at least once a week for at least four weeks immediately preceding the time when such meeting is to be held, and by meeting at the time and place specified in such notice with such dentists authorized to practise dentistry in the district as may respond to such call, and by making and filing with the secretary of the State Dental Society a certificate, to be executed and acknowledged by the dentists so meeting, or by at least fifteen of them, which shall set forth that such meeting has been held pursuant to such notice, the corporate name of the society, which shall be the district dental society of the judicial district where located, the names and places of residences of the officers of the society for the first year, or until the first annual meeting, which officers shall be a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, the time and place of the annual meeting of the society, the general objects and purposes of the association and the names of eight delegates to the State society divided into four classes of two delegates each, to hold office until the first, second, third and fourth annual meeting thereafter, respectively. And thereon the persons executing such certificate and all other dentists in good standing and authorized to practise dentistry in such district, who shall subscribe to its by-laws, shall be a corporation by the name expressed in such certificate.

Sec. 193. Powers of District Dental Societies.—Every licensed and registered dentist in the judicial district in which such society is formed, shall be eligible to membership in the district society of the district where he resides or practises dentistry. Every district society shall at every annual meeting choose two delegates to the State Dental Society, each to serve four years, and may fill all vacancies occurring in their respective delegations in the State society. Every district dental society shall at its annual meeting appoint not less than three nor more than five censors to continue in office for one year and until others are chosen, who shall constitute a district board of censors. The dental societies of the respective districts of the State shall have power to make all needful by-laws not inconsistent with the laws of this State for the management of their affairs and property and the admission and expulsion of members; providing, that no by-law of any district society shall be repugnant to or inconsistent with the by-laws of the State society. Said societies may purchase and hold real and personal estate for the purposes of their incorporation; provided that the property of a district society shall not exceed in value $5,000 and the property of the State society shall not exceed in value $25,000.

Sec. 194. Licentiates.—Only the following persons shall be deemed licensed to practise dentistry:

1. Those duly licensed and registered as dentists in this State prior to the first day of August, 1895, pursuant to the laws in force at the time of their license and registration.

2. Those duly licensed and registered after the first day of August, 1895, pursuant to the provisions of this chapter.

Sec. 195. State Board of Dental Examiners.—The existing State Board of Dental Examiners shall be divided into four classes and their terms of office shall continue except that said terms shall expire on the 31st day of July in each year. After July 31, 1910, the State Board of Dental Examiners shall be increased by the addition of a member residing in the Ninth Judicial District, who shall be appointed in the manner provided by this section, for a term of four years, commencing on the first day of August, 1910, and who shall be a member of the class whose terms commence on such date. Before the day when the official terms of the members of any of said classes shall expire, the Regents shall appoint their successors, to serve for the term of four years from said day. Such appointment shall be made from nominations in number twice the number of the outgoing class made by such society to the Regents prior to the second Tuesday in June of each year. In default of such nominations, the Regents shall appoint such examiners from the legally qualified dentists in the State belonging to the State Dental Society. The Regents, in the same manner, shall also fill vacancies in the board that may occur. All nominations and appointments shall be so made that every vacancy in the board shall be filled by a resident of the same judicial district in which the last incumbent of the office resided. The board shall elect at its annual meeting from its members a president and a secretary and shall hold one or more meetings each year pursuant to call of the Regents. No person shall be appointed an examiner unless he shall have received a dental degree from a body lawfully entitled to confer the same, and in good standing at the time of its conferment, and shall have been engaged within the State during not less than five years prior to his appointment in the actual and lawful practice of dentistry. Nor shall any person connected with a dental school as professor, trustee or instructor be eligible to such appointment. Cause being shown before them the Regents may remove an examiner from office on proven charges of inefficiency, incompetency, immorality or unprofessional conduct.

Sec. 196. Examinations.—The Regents shall admit to examination any candidate who shall pay the fee herein prescribed and submit satisfactory evidence, verified by oath if required, that he:

1. Is more than 21 years of age.
2. Is of good moral character.
3. Has a preliminary education equivalent to graduation from a four-year high school course registered by the Regents, or an education accepted by the Regents as fully equivalent.
4. Subsequently to receiving such preliminary education either has been graduated in course with a dental degree from a registered dental school, or else, having been graduated in course from a registered medical school with a degree of doctor of medicine, has pursued thereafter a course of special study of dentistry for at least two years in a registered dental school, and received therefrom its degree of doctor of dental surgery, or else holds a diploma or license conferring full right to practise dentistry in some foreign country and granted by some registered authority or else has lawfully practised dentistry for more than twenty-five years without this State and within the United States. Provided that any person who then being a bona fide student of dentistry in this State under private preceptorship was entitled to file on or before the 31st day of July, 1895, with the secretary of the State Dental Society a certificate of study under private preceptorship and who did at any time prior to the first day of January, 1904, upon sworn proof of such fact file such a certificate with the Regents, may be admitted to examination before the board. Any member of the board may inquire of any applicant for examination concerning his qualifications and may take testimony of any one in regard thereto, under oath, which he is hereby empowered to administer.

Sec. 197. Degrees.—No degree in dentistry shall be conferred in this State except the degree of doctor of dental surgery. Said degree shall not be conferred upon any one unless he shall have satisfactorily completed a course of at least three years in a registered dental school, or having been graduated in course from a registered medical school with the degree of doctor of medicine shall have pursued satisfactorily thereafter a course of special study of dentistry for at least two years in a registered dental school; nor shall said degree be conferred upon any one, unless prior to matriculation in the institution conferring his professional degree, or before beginning the second course of lectures counted toward such degree he shall have filed with said institution a Regents' certificate that he has received the required preliminary education evidenced as aforesaid; provided further, however, that the Regents may confer upon all persons who shall have received the degree of master of dental surgery under the laws of this State, prior to March 28, 1901, the degree of doctor of dental surgery in lieu of said master's degree.

Sec. 198. Licenses.—On certification by the Board of Dental Examiners that a candidate has successfully passed its examinations and is competent to practise dentistry, the Regents shall issue to him their license so to practise pursuant to the rules established by them. On the recommendation of the board, the Regents may also, without the examination hereinbefore provided for, issue their license to any applicant therefor who shall furnish proof satisfactory to them that he has been duly graduated from a registered dental school and has been thereafter lawfully and reputably engaged in such practice for six years next preceding his application; or who holds a license to practise dentistry in any other State of the United States granted by a State board of dental examiners, indorsed by the Dental Society of the State of New York, provided, that in either case his preliminary and professional education shall have been not less than that required in this State. Every license so issued shall state on its face the grounds on which it is granted and the applicant may be required to furnish his proofs on affidavit.

Sec. 199. Registration.—Every person practising dentistry in this State and not lawfully registered before April 17, 1896, shall register in the office of the clerk of the county where his place of business is located, in a book kept by the clerk for such purpose, his name, age, office and post office address, date and number of his license to practise dentistry and the date of such registration, which registration he shall be entitled to make only upon showing to the county clerk his license or a duly authenticated copy thereof, and making an affidavit stating name, age, birthplace, the number of his license and the date of its issue; that he is the identical person named in the license; that before receiving the same he complied with all the preliminary requirements of this article and the rules of the Regents and board as to the terms and the amount of study and examination; that no money, other than the fees prescribed by this article and said rules, was paid directly or indirectly for such license, and that no fraud, misrepresentation or mistake in a material regard was employed or occurred in order that such license should be conferred. The county clerk shall preserve such affidavit in a bound volume and shall issue to every licentiate duly registering and making such affidavit, a certificate of registration in his county, which shall include a transcript of the registration. Such transcript and the license may be offered as presumptive evidence in all courts of the facts stated therein. The county clerk's fee for taking such registration and affidavit and issuing such certificate, shall be $1. A practising dentist having registered a lawful authority to practise dentistry in one county of the State and removing such practice or part thereof to another county, or regularly engaging in practice or opening an office in another county, shall show or send by registered mail to the clerk of such other county his certificate of registration. If such certificate clearly shows that the original registration was of an authority issued under seal by the Regents, or if the certificate itself is indorsed by the Regents as entitled to registration, the clerk shall thereupon register the applicant in the latter county, on receipt of a fee of 25 cents, and shall stamp or indorse on such certificate, the date and his name, preceded by the words, "registered also in..... county," and return the certificate to the applicant. Any person who having lawfully registered as aforesaid shall thereafter change his name in any lawful manner shall register the new name with marginal note of the former name; and shall note upon the margin of the former registration the fact of such change and a cross reference to the new registration. A county clerk who knowingly shall make or suffer to be made upon the book of registry of dentists kept in his office any other entry than is provided for in this section shall be liable to a penalty of $50 to be recovered by the State Dental Society in a suit in any court having jurisdiction.

Sec. 200. Examination Fees.—Every applicant for license to practise dentistry shall pay a fee of not more than $25. From the fees provided by this article the Regents may pay all proper expenses incurred by them under its provisions, and any surplus at the end of any academic year shall be paid to the society nominating the examiners to defray its expenses incurred under the law.

Sec. 201. Revocation of Licenses.—If any practitioner of dentistry be charged under oath before the board, with unprofessional or immoral conduct, or with gross ignorance, or inefficiency in his profession, the board shall notify him to appear before it at an appointed time and place, with counsel, if he so desires, to answer said charges, furnishing to him a copy thereof. Upon the report of the board that the accused has been guilty of unprofessional or immoral conduct, or that he is grossly ignorant or inefficient in his profession, the Regents may suspend the person so charged from the practice of dentistry for a limited season, or may revoke his license. Upon the revocation of any license, the fact shall be noted upon the records of the Regents and the license shall be marked as cancelled, of the date of its revocation. Upon presentation of a certificate of such cancellation to the clerk of any county wherein the licentiate may be registered, said clerk shall note the date of the cancellation on the register of dentists and cancel the registration. A conviction of felony shall forfeit a license to practise dentistry, and upon presentation to the Regents or a county clerk by any public officer or officer of a dental society of a certified copy of a court record showing that a practitioner of dentistry has been convicted of felony, that fact shall be noted on the record of license and clerk's register, and the license and registration shall be marked "cancelled." Any person who, after conviction of a felony shall practise dentistry in this State, shall be subject to all the penalties prescribed for the unlicensed practice of dentistry, providing that if such conviction be subsequently reversed upon appeal and the accused acquitted or discharged, his license shall become again operative from the date of such acquittal or discharge.

Sec. 202. Construction of This Article.—This article shall not be construed to prohibit an unlicensed person from performing merely mechanical work upon inert matter in a dental office or laboratory, or the student of a licentiate from assisting the latter in his performance of dental operations while in the presence and under the personal supervision of his instructor; or a student in an incorporated dental school or college from performing operations for purposes of clinical study under the supervision and instruction of preceptors; or a duly licensed physician from treating diseases of the mouth or performing operations in oral surgery. But nothing in this article shall be construed to permit the performance of independent dental operations by an unlicensed person under cover of the name of a registered practitioner or in his office. Nor shall anything in this article be construed to require of students matriculated in registered dental or medical schools before the first day of January, 1905, any other or higher qualification for the dental license or degree than was demanded by existing laws as interpreted by the regulations of the Regents at the date of their matriculation.

Sec. 203. Penalties.—a. A person who, in any county of this State, practises or holds himself out to the public as practising dentistry, not being at the times of said practice or holding out, a dentist licensed to practise as such in this State and registered in the office of the clerk of such county, pursuant to the general laws regulating the practice of dentistry, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and punishable upon conviction of a first offense by a fine of not less than $50, and upon conviction of a subsequent offense by a fine of not less than $100, or by imprisonment for not less than two months or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any violation of this section by a person theretofore convicted under the then existing laws of this State of practising dentistry without license or registration, shall be included in the term a "subsequent offense." Every conviction of unlawful practice or holding out subsequent to a first conviction thereof shall be a conviction of a second offense. Every practitioner of dentistry must display in a conspicuous place upon the house or in the office wherein he practises his full name. If there are more dental chairs than one in any office or dental parlor the name of the practitioner must be displayed on or by said chair in plain sight of the patient. Any person who shall practise dentistry without displaying his name as herein prescribed; and any proprietor, owner or manager of a dental office, establishment or parlor who shall fail so to display or cause to be displayed the name of each person employed as a practising dentist or practising as a dentist in said office, establishment or parlor, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable upon a first conviction by a fine of $50, and upon every subsequent conviction by a fine of not less than $100, or by imprisonment for not less than sixty days, or by both fine and imprisonment.

b. A person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon every conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $250, or by imprisonment for not less than six months, or by both fine and imprisonment, who

1. Shall sell or barter or offer to sell or barter any diploma or document conferring or purporting to confer, any dental degree or any certificate or transcript made or purporting to be made pursuant to the laws regulating the license and registration of dentists; or,

2. Shall purchase or procure by barter any such diploma, certificate or transcript with intent that the same shall be used as evidence of the qualifications to practise dentistry of any person other than the one upon whom it was lawfully conferred or in fraud of the laws regulating such practice; or,

3. Shall, with fraudulent intent, alter in a material regard any such diploma, certificate or transcript; or,

4. Shall use or attempt to use any such diploma, certificate or transcript which has been purchased, fraudulently issued, counterfeited or materially altered either as a license or color of license to practise dentistry or in order to procure registration as a dentist; or,

5. Shall practise dentistry under a false or assumed name; or,

6. Shall assume the degree of bachelor of dental surgery, doctor of dental surgery, or master of dental surgery, or shall append the letters B. D. S., D. D. S., M. D. 7. Shall falsely presonate another at any examination, held by the Regents or by the board, of the preliminary or professional education of candidates for dental student certificates, dental degrees or licenses, or who shall induce another to make or aid and abet in the making of such false personation, or who shall knowingly avail himself of the benefit of such false personation, or who shall knowingly or negligently make falsely any certificate required by the Regents or board in connection with their examinations.

c. Any person who in any affidavit or examination required of an applicant for examination, license or registration under the laws regulating the practice of dentistry, or under the laws, ordinances or regulations governing the Regents' examinations of the preliminary education required for a dental student's certificate shall make wilfully a false statement in a material regard shall be guilty of perjury, and punishable upon conviction thereof by imprisonment not exceeding ten years.

d. All courts of special sessions and police justices sitting as courts of special sessions shall have jurisdiction in the first instance to hear and determine all charges of misdemeanors mentioned in this article committed within their local jurisdiction, and to impose all the penalties provided for misdemeanors in this article; provided, however, that the power of said courts and justices to hear and determine such charges shall be divested, if before the commencement of a trial before such court or justice, a grand jury shall present an indictment against the accused person for the same offense, or if a justice of the Supreme Court or a county judge of the county shall grant a certificate in the manner provided by law in cases of misdemeanor, that it is reasonable that such charge be prosecuted by indictment.

e. All fines, penalties and forfeitures of bail imposed or collected on account of violations of the laws regulating the practice of dentistry must be paid to the State Dental Society. Said society may prefer complaints for violations of the law regulating the practice of dentistry before any court, tribunal or magistrate having jurisdiction thereof and may by its officers, counsel and agents aid in presenting the law and the facts before such court, tribunal or magistrate in any proceeding instituted by it.

DENTAL LAW OF VIRGINIA.

Amended 1910.

New Dental Law of Virginia: A bill to define dentistry, to regulate the practise of the same, and to provide penalties for the violation of the provisions of this Act:—

Recognizing that dentistry is a specialty of medicine and surgery; therefore,

1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, That after this act goes into effect, it shall be unlawful for any person to engage in the practice of this specialty for compensation as either assistant or employee, or to receive a license from any commissioner of the revenue to practise this specialty, except he shall have passed the examinations provided for by this Act and receive the certificates herein provided, and any person practicing this specialty in this State without having passed examinations and received certificates, as herein provided, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than one hundred dollars nor more than two hundred and fifty dollars for the first offense, and for the second offense a fine of not less than five hundred dollars, or imprisonment of from three to twelve months in jail, or both, in the discretion of the jury. Nor shall such person receive any compensation for services rendered by him; provided, that nothing contained in this section shall prevent any authorized physician or surgeon from extracting teeth or any other person from extracting teeth from anyone suffering from toothache, or to prevent a bona fide student in regular attendance upon any dental college in this State from practising dentistry under the direct supervision of one of its teachers in the regular infirmary of such college.

On the trial of any person charged with violation of any of the provisions of this Act, it shall be incumbent on the defendant to show that he has authority under the law to practise this specialty in this State in order to relieve himself from the penalties herein prescribed.

Any commissioner of the revenue who shall, in violation of section one, issue a license to any person not authorized to practice this specialty by this Act, shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not less than twenty dollars nor more than fifty dollars, and no license issued by any commissioner in violation of this Act shall be valid.

2. From and after January 1, nineteen hundred and fourteen, anno domini, the practice of this specialty in this State shall be a branch or specialty of medicine and surgery, and no person, after this Act goes into effect, shall be given the examination or a certificate required by section four of this Act unless he shall first show to the satisfaction of the examining board provided by law for applicants to practice medicine or surgery, and has received from the Virginia State Board of Medical Examiners the certificate thereof as required by law to be given by them to such applicants.

3. There shall be for the commonwealth of Virginia a board of dental examiners consisting of three practitioners of dentistry of acknowledged ability in the profession, to be appointed by the Governor upon recommendation of the Virginia State Dental Association. Such examiners shall hold office for a term of three years.

The board shall continue to be divided into three classes with one member each, one of which classes shall go out of office each succeeding year. And the Governor shall annually appoint the successors of each class, as it goes out of office, for the term of three years. He shall make the appointments in each case from two persons who shall be nominated by the Virginia State Dental Association and reside in different sections of the State.

All vacancies for unexpired terms shall be filled by the Governor on nominations made by the board. If no such nomination be made, the Governor may appoint such persons as he may deem fit.

4. It shall be the duty of this board to meet annually at a time and place of meeting of the Virginia Dental Association, or at such time and place as the board may agree upon, to conduct the examination of the applicants. They may also meet for the same purpose at the call of two members of the board at such time and place as may be designated by them. Thirty-days' notice of the meetings shall be given by advertising in at least two of the daily papers published in the State. It shall be the duty of the said board to grant a certificate to practise this specialty to all applicants who undergo the State examination and receive at least two votes, which certificates shall be signed by the members of the board and be stamped with a suitable seal. It shall further be the duty of such board to register the name and qualification, as far as practicable, of every person to whom such certificate is granted in a book to be kept for such purposes.

5. Any member of the board may, upon presentation by any applicant of the evidence of the necessary qualifications to practise this specialty under this act, grant a temporary license to practise until the next meeting of the board and no longer; provided that not such temporary license shall be granted to any person who has not passed the examination and obtained the certificate of the Virginia State Board of Medical Examiners.

6. The book provided for by section four shall be a book of record, and transcripts from it certified by the officer who has it in keeping, with the seal of the board affixed, shall be evidence in any court of the State.

7. Every person practicing this specialty in the commonwealth of Virginia at the time of the passage of this Act shall annually register his name and post-office with the Board of Examiners before renewing his license, and it shall be the duty of the board to issue to each person so registered a certificate of registration stamped with the seal of the board and signed by its secretary. Such person so registered may continue such practice without incurring any of the liabilities imposed by this chapter by annually causing his name and residence or place of business to be registered by such board, who shall keep a book for that purpose. Such registration may be made by furnishing proof of the fact of being then so engaged in the manner prescribed by law. All persons holding a certificate of ability from said board shall annually register in like manner. A certified list of the persons registered from each city or county shall be furnished the clerk thereof, except that in the city of Richmond such list shall be furnished the clerk of the Chancery Court of said city, and each name on such list shall be at once recorded by such clerk in a book to be kept for that purpose, for which he shall receive a fee of fifty cents for each certificate of the person so recorded, to be paid by said board. Every person who prior to the passage of this act was duly authorized by said board to practise this specialty in this State, and whose certificate is duly registered and recorded as herein prescribed, shall be allowed to continue to so practise. But no license to practise this specialty shall be issued by any commissioner of the revenue to any person whose name is not so recorded in the clerk's office of the city or county as herein prescribed, and any person who shall engage in the practise of this specialty and fail to register with the board as herein prescribed, shall, after ninety days' notice in writing from said board of such neglect, be liable to the penalties prescribed in this Act.

8. Fees from applicants and registration.—Said board shall charge each person who appears before them for examination a fee of two dollars for each examination, and shall charge for each person registering one dollar. From the funds received all proper and reasonable expenses of the board and each of its members, incurred in carrying out and maintaining and enforcing the provisions of this chapter, must be paid. No part of such expense shall be paid out of the State treasury. Any excess of receipts over disbursements shall be paid by the board to meet future expenses of the board and members. The secretary of the board shall have custody of its funds and may be required to give bond in such terms as the board may direct. An itemized report of the proceedings of the board, containing an account of all moneys received and disbursed, pursuant to this chapter, shall be made to the Governor on the first day of February of each year.

9. This Act shall be in force from and after the first day of January, nineteen hundred and fourteen, anno domini.

10. All Acts or parts of Acts inconsistent with the provisions of this Act are hereby repealed.
